Never A Dull Moment for Schools Here; They May Lose Houston and $500,000

Any school official offered a job far away from the State of New Jersey, could hardly be blamed if it looked very tempting indeed.

The news surfaced this week that Superintendent Paul Houston is one of seven finalists for the job of superintendent of Kentucky's largest school system, centered in Louisville.

And at the same time, it looks more and more as though New Jersey's Governor Brendan T. Byrne will slice $60 million from public school budgets — a cut that would lop off about $500,000 from Princeton's budget.

Dr. Houston says he didn't apply for the job, and told the school board about it in December.

"I'm happy as a clam where I am," he smiled. "I'm not seeking a job — I've only been here four years, and that's a little quick, in my book. I wouldn't have given this a thought, but they got in touch with me."

The job is that of superintendent of the Jefferson County school system. It pays about $60,000, compared to the mid-$40,000 range of Dr. Houston's Princeton job.

There are 100,000 children in the school system and 12,000 employees. The annual budget is around $200 million, and the district is the 18th largest in the United States.

He will be travelling to Louisville — where he has never been — within the next week or two for interviews. A native of the south-central part of the country, Dr. Houston would be "going home" if he took the Kentucky job, but that's not the only thing that would influence him, he said.

"The only reason I'd consider leaving Princeton, would be for a job with the scope of this one," the superintendent said. "I was approached by a rich suburban district in California, but I wasn't interested.

"This is wholly different, and it would be another step in my professional development. You know, they're closing schools in that district — 11 of them including two or three high schools!"

Three or four years ago, the superintendent said, the district integrated its schools racially and at the same time, regionalized two districts into one, thereby assuming a pair of horrendous problems simultaneously. The district combines urban and suburban populations.

Dr. Houston said he thought his chances in Louisville were minimal. Other applicants have had experience running a large system like this one, and he has not. He said that, in past months, he has also been approached by Rochester, New York, and a school system in California. He himself, before he received tenure, had "insurance" applications out at Madison, Wisconsin and San Jose, California. He withdrew them both.

"So, if I were going to leave Princeton, it would be for this kind of thing. But we like Princeton. You have to look at the benefits and the liabilities, and Princeton has a lot more benefits than liabilities. Princeton is a very good system, I have good relations with the board, and everything is positive."

Senior Citizens May Feel Monetary Squeeze Next As Borough, Township Work to Meet Budget 'Caps'

You don't build a budget — you take one and chip away at it. At least, that's what you do in municipal halls in New Jersey this chill January.

This Saturday, Borough and Township will gather for the second session of budget work on agencies they have in common: public library, recreation, planning board, health commission, civil rights. The meeting will be held in Borough Hall at 9:30 a.m. Last Saturday's went on all day.

"Rob McChesney (Council member) said we had to remove $25,000 total out of the joint budgets," Mayor Robert W. Cawley reported on Monday. "We've removed $13,000 so far — that's $13,000 overall, reduced from the departments' own requests."

Meanwhile, what about that ruling by Attorney General John Degnan that municipalities should have included proceeds from the sale of municipal assets, in the budget "cap" all those years? The court told East Windsor and Trenton two weeks ago to wait until January 20 to find out whether the legislature would act.

So far, it hasn't. Several bills are in the basket for introduction this week — or next — in both Assembly and Senate. What municipalities chiefly want is elimination of that retroactive factor. Maybe, for example, money from sale of Borough-Township land to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority should have been included in the caps, but is it fair to make it retroactive? Because retroactivity compounds, like interest. For the Borough, it's a $150,000 blow.

Since the legislature still hadn't acted by this Tuesday, the Appellate Court told East Windsor and Trenton that it will decide, perhaps in two days, perhaps in two weeks, whether to issue a temporary stay of Mr. Degnan's ruling, and at what point it will assume jurisdiction.

"The court is very sensitive to the problem," explains Michael Pane, attorney for East Windsor, but the "caps" law is from the legislature, and the courts don't want to step in where they shouldn't."

In the Borough, so far, Council has been pushing the First Aid and Rescue Squad to find enough funding so that it won't need public money at all.

"We sent them to the Council of Community Services, for funding ideas," Mayor Cawley remarked.

Senior citizen activities at the Resource Center, Lloyd Terrace, may have to be curtailed or at least reorganized because Borough and Township together agreed to drop all financial support. They had been contributing $3,300 each to the salary of Jocelyn Helm, director of the Center. This amounts to about one-third of her pay. The rest is met by the Housing Authority through "tenant services" money from HUD, the Federal Housing and Urban Development agency.

Mrs. Helm serves the whole community, not just residents of Lloyd Terrace. She has 15 to 20 people in a "movement therapy" class; she confers with Visiting Nurse and Homemaker services about elderly people just discharged from the hospital; she gives advice on taxes and legal aid.

"We have built up a whole network for senior citizens in the past five years," she says, "what we do

"It's worse all the time," Dr. Houston observed. He tends to agree, he said, with those who suspect Governor Byrne may be threatening the cuts deliberately to pressure the legislature into a new formula for distributing aid.

"If the schools sue, the courts might act on school financing. Or, the legislature might be jolted."

The $500,000 loss for Princeton would be in what the state calls "minimum aid." The money is spread out into the budget and does not finance any one particular item, he explained.

"Sure, you could raise local taxes. But we now have a budget with a seven to seven and one-half percent increase. Otherwise, it would have to be 12 or 13 percent! You'd go from a budget you can defend, to a budget hard to defend even though you haven't changed the spending by a penny."

There has already been a 50 percent cut in compensatory education, he pointed out, adding, "There isn't much more to cut."

Mrs. Helm is also a coordinator, adjusting events so that trips or classes or health screenings are not held on the same day. Her office has arranged for classes by Mercer County Community College for older residents.

Nothing has ever been more welcome than the sight earlier this week of the mercury climbing up into the forties. It's the first time in several weeks the temperature has been this high. While somewhat colder weather is expected to move in on Wednesday, the daytime readings should still be somewhere in the thirties for the rest of the week, getting down to the teens at night. Partly sunny skies are forecast for the majority of the time with some chance of rain or snow toward the weekend.

Or Retory might take on the work of the Senior Resource Center. County money is a possibility, also.

"I don't foresee any way to turn this decision around," she said with regret, of the Borough-Township decision to stop funding.

"I want to make it very clear that this has nothing to do with Mrs. Helm's work. We all feel that she is a superb person, and she will get a letter from us praising the level of service she has provided. This makes it all the harder to cut it from the budget!"

The Borough-Township cut-off is only for the municipal part of Mrs. Helm's salary. The two municipalities will continue to pay for telephone, postage and similar items.

mornings a week from 9 to 11:45. There is also a cooperative session for 2½-year olds which runs either two or three days a week.

An optional extended day program until 1 p.m. is being offered for the first time this year for three and four year olds. The children bring their own lunches and may stay either three, four or five days.

Those who would like more information, or who would like to arrange a visit to the school, should call Kathy Rolph at 921-1828, or the director, Jean McAndrew, 924-8742.

Mr. Jones has written about the generation that is now between the ages of 16 and 34, whose sheer numbers have affected every aspect of our society from music to the economy. This bulge in our demographic pattern will continue to influence every age group as well as the 75 million aging "boom" babies.

This is the first in the Library's spring series of Writers Talking. The next will be Charles Neider, speaking on February 24.

School Board Makes It Official and Unanimous; Johnson Park School Will Be Closed in June

The school board voted 9-0 Tuesday night to close Johnson Park elementary school as an instructional building at the end of the current school year. Superintendent Paul Houston was directed to do an "appropriate" redistricting of children and staff.

He was also told to start preparations for moving the schools' administrative offices from the Valley Road building into Johnson Park, and to start the search for Valley Road tenants.

The latter involves starting up the machinery for obtaining either zoning variances or an actual change of zone from the Township so the building can be used for commercial offices. Work related to Johnson Park, however, has priority, the board instructed.

Board member Michael Tomalin, who had sponsored a resolution to close Johnson Park the following year -- in 1982-83 -- announced late in the meeting that he was withdrawing that resolution.

"I've been convinced by tonight's discussion that we should close this fall," he declared. He did not say specifically what had motivated his change of opinion.

His colleague, Ann McGoldrick had, like Mr. Tomalin, prepared a memorandum showing population projections and all the possible options the school district has. None of the options, in her memo, Mrs. McGoldrick said, required the use of Johnson Park's space. Commenting on Dr. Houston's recommendation of last month to wait a year before the closing, Mrs. McGoldrick said it would disrupt both children and administration twice in a short time and she disapproved.

She also said there were 30 classes at the high school with 30 or more students, and one language class with 37. Closing Johnson Park, she said, would benefit the whole district by allowing a reduction in these class sizes and spreading the district's slender financial resources "more evenly and fairly."

Dr. Houston has calculated a $150,000 saving to the district by closing the school (he said this opened seven teaching positions). The figure includes four supplemental teachers at Johnson Park, for a $75,000 saving; $30,000 in rental for Johnson Park space, if the Mercer County school for exceptional children decides to rent there, and savings by moving out of Valley Road.

The board, somewhat surprisingly, decided to retain a high school and a middle -- or "transitional" -- school. Dr. Houston reported the "strong, almost unanimous wish of principals that a middle school be retained.

Parents opposed to the Johnson Park closing received warm praise from board members for in Hannah Fox's words, "speaking articulately, reasonably and well." Ginger Lennon, a vocal opponent, hinted at a suit to prevent the closing, and charged "politics."

"Community Park was a sacred cow," she told the board. "You said, 'we can ignore the west side, but we can't ignore the John-Witherspoon area.' You'll lose the greatest number of children to private schools by closing Johnson Park, and you don't care."

Eva Collins said tearfully that her second grader should be given as much right as a student in a high-school language class. Board member Robin Wallack pointed out that high school students have no other high school, "but we provide fine education in all the other three elementary schools."

minded that there are some 545 acres in the Township that are subject to "severe defoliation" this spring. These areas are along Route 206 north of Mansgrove Road and along Mt. Lucas Road to Herkertown Road and east to Snowden Lane. Another area is along Cherry Hill Road from the pipeline to north of Ridgeview Road.

Not a binding commitment. The costs of the aerial spray program are borne equally by the state and the Township, but the expression of interest required now is not a financial commitment, according to Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini. The Township can withdraw from the program up to the time of the contract, he said.

This year, municipalities are being given the choice of using Sevin, which kills bees, or B-t, a two-application biological spray which is specifically for the gypsy moth and not harmful to other insects. The cost of using Sevin is estimated by the state at $8.50 to $9.50 per acre, and the cost of using B-t is considerably more, $11 to $15 an acre.

The Joint Environmental Commission held many sessions on the gypsy moth problem last year and recommended that no aerial spraying be undertaken in the Township. Although she agreed with the no-spray attitude last year, Mayor Josie Hall says that this year the drought is a factor that could further harm trees already weakened by

MILNER DENIES CHARGES

By Medical Center. Lawyers for the Medical Center filed last week a 73-page brief with the National Labor Relations Board, in which the Center charges that security guard Lawrence Milner, fired from the Center in December, was in the pay of the guards' union and reimbursed by the union for expenses.

Mr. Milner was one of the organizers of the union voted by the Center guards in 1979, an election under challenge by the Center.

Mr. Milner denied the charges.

"I have never been nor am I now, an employee of the United Plant Guard Workers of America," he stated. "The Center, in attacking my integrity, has forfeited its own."

He added that he was "appalled and deeply saddened" that the Center "would base its case for the illegality of the union on such an obvious lie."

Meanwhile, a minority report from Mr. Milner's grievance hearing at the Center on his discharge, has been issued by Clark Hutchinson and Jean Joseph Archemene, who cast the two votes favoring Mr. Milner, in the 3-2 decision.

The report states that Dennis Doody, executive vice-president of the Center, had vice-president had remained in the hearing room, contrary to Center guidelines, that he had volunteered to leave, but Milner had released Center material to "unauthorized president does not attend, but individuals" — that is, to newspaper reporters. It was "and grievances are usually the unauthorized release of confidential matters at the Center trustee minutes that Center, not released to brought about Mr. Milner's dismissal."

Mr. Doody said this would not be the case.

"He's gotten transcripts before, and I assure you that he will this time. It takes time to transcribe five or six tapes, but they should be ready in the next week or two. He told our personnel office he would need about a week to prepare for this meeting, and we'll be glad to accommodate him."

In a related matter, Center employee Reuben John, who filed a charge of discrimination against the Center with the NLRB, reportedly has agreed to a settlement.

Mr. Doody said the Center had stated, in a letter to Mr. John, that the institution does not discriminate nor harass and does not intend to in the future. The NLRB had requested this approach, Mr. Doody explained. He said Mr. John had accepted the letter as a settlement. Mr. John could not be reached for comment.

SILVERWARE IS STOLEN

From Borough Home. A 14-place setting of Danish silverware plus additional sterling pieces were stolen between Saturday afternoon and 4:30 the next day from a Borough home. Also taken were a 35mm camera and some lenses.

Because the victim's home is located on a short street, Capt. Theodore Lewis would place the location only as the east end of town. Police added that entry was gained — possibly — through a pair of lower-level sliding glass doors. They received no value on the missing silverware.

There were two more "short-street" break-ins in which police declined to reveal the name of the street.

Another "east end" entry took place Friday between 3 and 10 p.m. Someone, police said, pried open a garage door and then forced another door leading from the garage to the kitchen. Taken was a $150 portable cassette radio.

Between 2 p.m. and midnight, an intruder entered a "west end" home without force and took a small quantity of silverware from the dining room and a gold bracelet from a bedroom. Police say that they do not know the value of the missing items.

The entry of a Patton Avenue residence was reported to police at 10:45 Saturday evening. It took place sometime between then and January 7.

After gaining entry by forcing a rear window, the intruder ransacked the dining room and a bedroom. The only thing missing, police report, is a small tin box containing assorted coins and personal papers.

Gold Jewelry Taken. Several pieces of gold jewelry were stolen from a Fitzrandolph home, including two gold chains, a gold necklace and locket, two gold charm bracelets, a gold pocket watch, a gold and garnet ring, a gold choker with scallop-shaped pendant and a gold charm bracelet with seven gold swimming medals.

There were no signs of forced entry but police believe the home was entered by way of a sliding glass door between Friday night and last Tuesday morning.

Someone pried open a door to Princeton University radio station WPRB located in Holder Hall and left with a $150 cassette recorder and $15 in stamps. The robbery took place overnight.

In another campus theft reported on Friday, $40 was taken from a desk drawer in a student's room. A door had been pried open to get inside, police said.

Every room in a Princeton-Kingston Road house was ransacked, Township police report, after it was entered Friday by kicking in the kitchen door. It was discovered by the victim when she returned home from work at 9:25 p.m.

A list of stolen items is to be submitted to the police.

Township police went to a Rollingmead home Sunday night in response to a silent alarm which sounded at 7:39. Entry was gained by breaking out a cellar window but no access was gained to the upstairs living quarters. The intruder had pulled the main circuit breaker in an attempt to silence the alarm system.

There was a burglary last week at Princeton Day School where a lock on a storage shed in the garage maintenance area had been pried off. A spreader and a bag of feed were found outside the shed but it has not been determined if anything is missing, police said.

LET'S

SPOILING THE EVERGREEN!
with Sam De Iuro

Woodwinds Associates

Surely nothing is lovelier than evergreens framed and trimmed with snow, or just adding color to your grounds during some of these gloomy winter days. While you're admiring them, though, check to see if they're doing everything you want them to do as far as shape, position and screening capability are concerned.

Too many homeowners have allowed their evergreens to grow out of bounds and accumulate a mass of inner deadwood. Generally this occurs anywhere from five to ten years after planting. Hemlock, for example, may grow five to ten feet in a year if their tops were trimmed back judiciously several times during that period, the plant would fill in at the bottom and much better serve its purpose, whether as a screen, as a windbreak, or as part of a group planting.

Arborvitae, Spruce or Juniper may look fine as foundation plantings for a few years. Unchecked, their growth may eventually block off sunlight from windows, and in fact, become so unwieldy that trimming will do little good. It is far more sensible to keep them cut down to size before they get out of hand.

Once the desired shape is attained, prune the plant periodically to keep it that way. One late winter and two summer prunings are far more effective than one severe summer pruning, particularly when dealing with an evergreen hedge. In this situation, always leave the base slightly broader than the top to allow sunlight to strike the lower branches, thereby avoiding "leggy" growth.

Remember, too, that the severe drought conditions we have suffered this year have caused die-back of root systems, pruning therefore becomes essential from the standpoint of health as well as appearance.

Linden Lane Resident Victim of Armed Robbers

A 24-year old computer programmer, who lives on Linden Lane, was the victim of an armed robbery last week.

The victim told police that he was awakened around 3:30 Saturday morning by a flashlight shining in his face and by someone jerking his shoulder. His assailant, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a revolver, told the victim he wanted to know where the drugs and money were. A second intruder stood in the background. Both were wearing ski masks.

When the victim told the gun-wielding assailant that there were no drugs in the house — "which was the truth" — and that he only had $40 in his trousers, his assailant replied that he was lying and he didn't believe him. They were going to search the house, he said.

They handcuffed him and took him downstairs to the living room while they searched the house. The victim later told police that they told him if they found any money they were going to blow his head off.

When they were finished searching, the two forced the victim back upstairs and removed the handcuffs. Then they ordered him to lie down on his stomach and they bound his hands and feet with rope. Then they tied his hands to his feet, put a sock in his mouth and taped his mouth shut. They cut all the telephone wires.

The two intruders then told the victim they were going to go through the house again and that he better not come downstairs until 4:15. They placed a clock radio near his face so he could see it.

Police said they took a stereo AM-FM tuner, turntable and 22-watt amplifier with a combined value of $450 and a shoe box containing approximately 1,000 stamps. The stamps were valued at about $1 each, police said. They also took his $40.

After the victim was able to free himself, he checked the entire house to determine what had been taken. He then walked to a service station on the corner and called police at 5:27. Sgt. Timothy Huizing, Ptl. David Alston and Ptl. Randy Sutton responded. Det. William Fitch is continuing the investigation.

The two gained entrance to the house by breaking a pane of glass in a rear door, reaching in and unlocking the door, police said. The armed suspect is described as about 5-10, 160 pounds, wearing an orange and red ski mask; the second, also wearing a ski mask, was described only as slightly taller and thinner.

Police said that the victim, who has lived at the Linden Lane address since June and shares it with a roommate, was alone at the time.

THEFT REPORT

Dillon Gym a Target. Thefts of clothing, left outside squash courts in Dillon Gym on the university campus, were reported last week by Borough police. All the victims were students.

A blue parka valued at $120 and a skin diving watch valued at $200 were taken between 11:10 and 11:45 Thursday morning. A second victim lost a $40 varsity jacket, and a third a $159 down jacket, but the latter two were recovered later inside the gym.

Earlier in the week, three students listed the theft of a tan jacket ($40), white windbreaker and hockey shirt ($40) and a suede jacket, two scarves, pair of leather gloves and wallet containing $15. The clothing had a combined value of $125.

The same day a Battle Road resident lost $69 and credit cards when his wallet was taken from a gym locker. Both thefts took place between 4:50 and 5:40 in the afternoon.

Two Township juveniles, 13 and 14, were apprehended Friday afternoon by university proctors in Dillon gym, after they had allegedly stolen $6 from a student's trousers hanging in an unlocked locker. They were later released to their parents.

A full-length coat made of imported leather from Pakistan, and valued at $300 to $600, was taken from a chair in the bar area of the Hudibras Restaurant at approximately 1:45 Thursday morning. Police report the owner is a Plainsboro resident.

Stolen from a coat rack in the main lobby of Dial Ledge Day School reported the attempt last week to steal the battery from his Jeep which was parked in a school lot. In the morning, he discovered the hood had been raised and the victim is a 20-year-old resident of Wyckoff.

A Trenton resident listed the theft of a wallet containing $20 from a fourth-floor locker room at Princeton Medical Center between 3:30 and 10:45 p.m. on Saturday.

In one of two late reports of thefts from homes on Western Way, police said that a gold wedding band worth $270 had been taken December 31 from atop a bedroom dresser, and, in a similar theft, a 14-inch gold chain valued at $150 was taken from a dresser drawer sometime between Dec. 19 and Jan. 4. There was no sign of any forced entry in either theft, police said.

Two brown plaid blankets and a woman's blue poncho, with a combined value of $75, were stolen from a Volkswagen last week on Route 206.

Ptl. John Seeley investigated when he noticed the car partially in the highway and partially in a driveway at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. His car had been rolled down the drive and its interior ransacked. Wires under the dash had been pulled in an attempt to bypass the ignition.

One of the blankets was later recovered stuck in a door of a car in the Princeton-Chrysler lot on Route 206. That car had also been entered and vandalized, police said.

Judge Gerber, 89, Attends Opening Of State Legislature for 60th Time

Louis Gerber, who will be 90 in August, attended his 60th consecutive opening of the New Jersey Legislature on January 13. Mr. Gerber, who is often called "Judge Gerber" from his 27 years as Princeton Township Magistrate, attended the session in his capacity as public relations consultant on legislative matters for Public Service.

Mr. Gerber is also counsel of record for Princeton Savings and Loan, and has been for 48 years. As Princeton Township attorney he joined Borough attorney William van de Water in 1932 to draw up the original Sewer Operating Committee agreement among Princeton University and the two municipal governments.

He moved to Princeton 55 years ago from Trenton, set up a general practice in law at 20 Nassau Street, then moved to 11 Chambers Street and finally moved his law office to his Township home.

that Johns Hopkins has been chosen over Princeton University to provide the ground station for the world's first observatory in outer space.

The decision was made by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. If all goes well, NASA's Space Shuttle is supposed to carry a 2.4 meter space telescope into orbit 300 miles above the earth in 1984 or 1985.

Although the University lost in its bid to provide the ground site, it will remain part of a 14-member consortium awarded the NASA contract to establish and run a Space Telescope Institute.

The sites near Princeton were on Route One near the Plasma Physics Laboratory and between the Institute for Advanced Study and the Princeton University campus, off Alexander Road.

Dr. Lyman Spitzer, director of the Princeton University Observatory, remarked, after announcement of the decision, that "Princeton's strength for years has been in astrophysical theory," and he said he did not believe that position would be changed.

It was John H. Bahcall, astrophysicist at Princeton University and currently a Fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study, who used the phrase, "astronomical center of the universe."

He explained that Johns Hopkins will become that center because it will receive all the data from the telescope. He added his concern that many of the most sought-after scholars, internationally, would now prefer Johns Hopkins to Princeton.

CAR HITS POLE

On Route 206. A driver and his passenger were injured early Saturday morning when their car went off Route 206 and struck a utility pole.

Shen M. Kressler, 24, 6 VanderVeer Drive, Lawrenceville, told police that as he was adjusting his radio, he looked up and found he was going too fast to negotiate a curve because of the slippery road conditions. He braked but slid off the roadway and struck a service pole and a traffic light control box near the intersection of Edgewater Road.

Mr. Kressler was treated at Princeton Medical Center for bruises and contusions of the head; his passenger, Terrence E. Cusley, 24, or Morrisville, Pa., was treated for lacerations of the head. There were no charges by Sgt. Robert Heacock.

As Gananath Obeyeskere, 50, of LaJolla, Ca., was driving on N. Harrison Street shortly after five Friday afternoon, he saw a pedestrian gesture to him. He braked but his car skidded on the ice, ran off the roadway and struck a pole opposite Clearview Avenue.

Mr. Obeyeskere complained of leg pains and was treated at the Medical Center. His passenger, Ranjini Obeyeskere, 48, sustained bruises and contusions to her head and was also treated and released. There were no charges.

Borough Holds Final Hearing on Cable TV

The Borough's final cable hearing Monday night was Cawley. "We had a citizens slightly stunned by the appearance of Robert Durkee, a year, we've had many many vice-president for public meetings reported in affairs at Princeton the press...!" University.

The institutions, whose He told Council that a group representatives had met that of 12 Princeton institutions — morning at the University's plus the University — found suggestion, were the Institute themselves rather in the dark for Advanced Study, Princeton about cable, and wondered ton Theological Seminary, whether the four companies McCarter Theatre, West applying for a franchise, or minister Choir College, the anybody else, could give them public library, the Medical information about cable's Center at Princeton, Prince potential, and did they have ton Day School, The Hun time to pose some questions? School, the Princeton "Where have you been!" Regional Schools, Stuart Country Day, the Historical Society of Princeton and representatives of the clergy.

The Borough has now finished its hearings. The Township will hold its last this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Valley Road Building.

The four applicants may submit additional material only through January 26 — it will be shared among all applicants, and there will be a January 29 deadline for rebuttal. The Borough must make its decision by February 18.

A consultant for the University, Donald Mullally, director of broadcasting for the University of Illinois, asked on Monday night whether applicants could provide foreign news broadcasts via short-wave.

Nobody had expected that question. Tentative replies were mostly in the "depends on public interest" category, although one applicant did suggest that a delayed relay, on tape, might be one answer.

"Why Me?" The four applicants — Storer, Home Link, ComVideo and Cable One — were then invited to answer the question, "Why Me?"

Of the four, only Storer ticked off what it regards as the weak spots of the opposition. The firm cited its own experience, nationwide, and also in East Windsor-Hightstown (an earlier question elicited the information that 2,600 customers are now on line in East Windsor — 67 percent of the occupied houses). Storer said it believed Home Link was too expensive and "out of the main stream;" Cable One had not promised two-way, but had spoken only of "possibilities" and ComVideo the same.

Home Link defined itself as "specifically planned for Princeton," with no other applications than Borough and Township. It emphasized its "showcase" system, with the Dow Jones data base, a $20,000 annual endowment and a community advisory board already in place.

Chided by others for having no separate institutional network, Home Link said institutional uses would be integrated into the whole, but a separate network could be built if requested. Customers would build their own information package and pay only for the data they wanted.

ComVideo, already building in Hillsboro, said it, too, had Dow Jones, and offered "the best of all possible worlds": location in central New Jersey, with the national affiliation of Commonwealth Telephone Enterprises. Fee schedules were lower, but the quality was the same, ComVideo said. Not "overdesigned," like the other three proposed systems, ComVideo's provided the broadest services.

The firm said it was not involved, as both Cable One and Home Link are, with other media in Princeton. Cable One is linked to radio station WHWH and Home Link to the Princeton Packet.

Cable One pointed to 13 years' experience in cable, and promised channels for all local media, including campus radio stations and all local newspapers. The firm reminded Council that Comcast, its technical arm, would provide $50,000 for the community to match, and outlined again its institutional network and its central recording studio where a program "bank" could be established. The firm declined to promise yet how many hours it would devote to local programming.

hospital for contusions and abrasions of the face. Mr. Bethea was treated for a minor arm injury. Both his and the King car had to be towed; the other two were able to drive away.

IN NEW POST

Sigmund Sworn In. "Set us free from the yoke of state mandates," was the theme sounded by Mercer County Freeholder Barbara Sigmund as she was sworn in as president of the New Jersey Association of Counties.

Mrs. Sigmund declared, in brief swearing-in ceremonies last week that things which the state requires counties to pay for now take up 68 percent of the increase in property taxes, as opposed to 17 percent in 1976.

She said that four counties—Mercer, Hudson, Atlantic and Essex—will refuse to allocate increases beyond five percent for the maintenance of poor patients in state institutions. She related this to "a radical, confrontation-style approach" to the imposition of state-required costs "far above the five percent caps."

In addition, Mrs. Sigmund referred to the new Urban County Coalition of Mercer, Middlesex, Atlantic, Essex, Union, Passaic, Camden and Hudson counties, which will work for what the coalition regards as a more equitable tax treatment for taxpayers in counties where older cities are located.

PAPERS AVAILABLE
Copies, at Einstein's. Photocopies of more than 43,000 documents from the papers of Dr. Albert Einstein will be made available to qualified scholars, Princeton University announced this week. The originals are at the Institute for Advanced Study.

Dr. Otto Nathan, a former associate of Dr. Einstein's and, with Helen Dukas, who was secretary to Dr. Einstein, is literary executor of the Einstein estate, reportedly looks upon the University's action as "illegal" and "immoral." According to a story in the New York Times, Dr. Nathan says he was not notified of plans to make the photocopies available.

The University's library says that the estate retains control over the copies. Scholars will not be allowed to make copies of the copies without permission from the estate.

A controversy between the Princeton University Press and the two literary executors is still unresolved. Dr. Nathan has protested the appointment of Dr. John Stachel as editor of the Einstein papers for University Press publication.

LAMP, CARS TARGET

OF VANDALS. A copper lamp was removed last week from the front-yard post of a Riverside Drive resident and later found—damaged—in the victim's rear yard. Police added that they also found someone had stuffed snow into the gas tanks of two cars parked in the driveway.

In another act of criminal mischief, a Hibben apartment resident told police that someone had knocked out the left front window of his car while it was parked overnight in a Hibben lot. Nothing was taken from the car, police said.

A Princeton University student told Borough police that someone smashed the front window on the driver's side of his car while it had been parked during a seven-day period in the lot behind the Ivy Club on Prospect Avenue.

NOBEL WINNER TO SPEAK
At UJA Reception. The winner of the 1978 Nobel Prize for Physics, Dr. Arno A. Penzias, will be the speaker at the Princeton United Jewish Appeal Major Gifts reception, on Sunday, February 1, at the Institute for Advanced Studies.

Dr. Penzias, who is now the Communications Sciences at Bell Laboratories, was born in Germany but came to the United States just prior to the second World War. Along with Robert Wilson, Dr. Penzias discovered evidence supporting the big-bang theory of the origin of the universe. In addition to receiving many honorary degrees, Dr. Penzias is also the only American to hold the degree of Docteur Honoris Causa from the Observatoire de Paris.

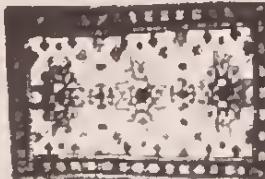

As the single American Jewish fundraising organization, the United Jewish Appeal supports relief and rehabilitation in Europe, Woodrow Wilson School immigration and settlement in Israel and refugee aid in the United States. The Major Gifts panel discussion will be Jack Lurcott, representing Rollins Environmental Services, Inc.; Katherine Montague, representing New Jersey Toxics Project; Michael Pane, the attorney for East Windsor; and a state government representative.

The public is encouraged to attend. For further information call 737-3735.

The Question: Sale Merchandise — What is on Sale?

At many sales, customers wonder where all the regular merchandise went. It seems most "good" items are not on sale, and most items that are reduced are offered 20%-50% off. At the other extreme are the stores loaded with "special purchases" or "comparable values" from manufacturers no one has ever heard of.

The Landau Solution: All merchandise offered at our sales is Landau quality, reduced 50% or more.

The merchandise offered at these unbelievable reductions is comprised of two categories:

1) Landau Leftovers — Regular Landau Store merchandise (from our Princeton and Vermont stores) carried through an entire selling season, which has not sold.

2) Landau Supplier Overstocks — Special purchases of leftovers from our key suppliers, offered to us at the end of the manufacturer's selling season.

When you come to a Landau Sale, you'll find tremendous selections of high quality, classic, natural fiber sportswear at  $\frac{1}{2}$  PRICE . . . Our own leftovers, and the leftovers of our major suppliers (DEANS, SKYR, LANZ, GEIST). We fill the store with terrific values, which fills the store with terrific customers. A real quality sale, pure and simple.

HOST FAMILIES SOUGHT
For AFS Students. Three foreign high school students will present a slide show and informative talk about their countries Monday evening, January 26, at 7:30 in the Princeton High School library. In Princeton under the auspices of the AFS International-Intercultural Programs, the trio will be making their first official public speaking engagement. The meeting is open to the public.

Regina von Atzingen from Brazil, Sunai Yoon from Switzerland and Hans Josefsson from Sweden are spending this year attending area high schools and living as members of area families. Their appearance Monday evening signals the start of the AFS annual search for host families for other teenagers who will be coming to this area for the next academic year. This is the 30th consecutive year for AFS in Princeton.

"Hosting a foreign student is a rewarding experience," according to Mrs. Jane Evans, publicity chairman. "It is fun to introduce your student to new foods and new places. It's also a challenge—a real life-sharing time—happy, amusing, sad, sometimes difficult, but always worthwhile. And seeing your own country's customs and culture through the eyes of a young visitor from another country can be an eye-opener for everyone concerned!"

Most American host families keep in contact with their "son" or "daughter" after they return home, often visiting back and forth over the years.

AFS students come to Princeton, not as tourists, but as members of a family. They will live as Americans for a year, taking part in all family activities, holding part-time jobs if they wish, studying at Princeton High School, Stuart Country Day School or Princeton Day School. Anyone interested in being host to a student should attend the Monday meeting. Further information can be obtained from Bunny Webb, 448-7828, PDS parent; Mary Lee Jamieson, 921-2139, Stuart; or Henry Gallagher, 924-6012, PHS.

Two teenagers are returning this month after having spent a year abroad with the AFS program. Marion Gallagher has come home from South Africa this past week and Romy Toussaint is due shortly from Brazil. Lynn Lamelza from Stuart Country Day leaves in February to join a family in Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

WOMEN'S GROUP SET
On Alcoholism. Family Service Agency will sponsor a group for women who have alcohol-related difficulties and wish to achieve or maintain their sobriety. The group will meet on Thursday evenings beginning January 29 from 7:30 to 9 at Family Service, 120 John Street.

This group will be primarily for women in the early stages of recovery. Relaxation, sensitization, desensitization, guided imagery, and other exercises for developing a positive self-image will be part of group processes. Problems related to daily living, family, work and impediments to sobriety will be dealt with in group discussions.

Mary Elwood, a member of staff who is a Certified Alcoholism Counselor and a graduate of Rutgers University School of Social Work, will be the group facilitator. Before the group begins, Ms. Elwood will meet with each applicant for an initial interview. Interested women should call Family Service at 924-2098 or 924-2210. The fee is based on the agency's sliding fee scale and major medical insurance reimbursement.

Family Service Agency is a private non-profit organization designed to provide professional assistance to individuals and families faced with vexing fees, the Princeton Area personal concerns. The United Way, the State of New Jersey Department of Human Services and Department of Health, Mercer County Department of Human Services, Princeton Youth Fund, and private contributions.

CALLER CHOSEN

For PHS Choir Square Dance. Fred Fields will call the square dance being organized by Shinobu Asano and her committee to benefit the Princeton High School Choir's trip to New Orleans. Mr. Fields teaches square dancing in the Princeton Adult School and has called square dances in Princeton and the surrounding area for several years.

Proceeds from the benefit dance will go to the PHS Choir Fund to help make it possible for the choir with its director, William Trego, and its associate director, Nancianne Parrella, to attend the national convention of the American Choral Directors' Association, to be held in New Orleans in March.

The square dance will be held Saturday, January 31, at 8:30 in the new gymnasium of Princeton High School. It is intended for the enjoyment of people of all ages. No prior knowledge of square dancing is required; instruction in basic steps will be given by the caller. Free refreshments will be provided.

Tickets are $3 per person and are tax deductible. They can be purchased in advance from the parents of choir members or at the door.

MORE COURSES LISTED

By Adult School. In response to the steadily increasing community demand for adult education, the Princeton Adult School is offering more courses, on a wider variety of subjects, for the 1981 spring term than it ever has before.

International relations, literature of the East and West, physical fitness, travel, arts and crafts, music, and languages are among the most popular areas, and, in each of these, the School is presenting some new classes in addition to many old favorites.

Highlighting the curriculum are several courses which deal with current international issues. "China, Yesterday and Today" will be given by Professor James Liu of Princeton University's East Asian Studies Department, and "The U.S. and the World Since 1945: Globalism and Its Consequences" will be taught by Professor Richard D. Challener of the University's Department of History.

An opportunity to gain a better understanding of Near Eastern culture is available to those who enroll in Princeton Professor Jerome Clinton's course on "The Literature of the Islamic Near East," while those with a more historical turn of mind will enjoy Professor John Marks' examination of Biblical history in the context of the Near East, "The Bible in History."

"The Twilight of the Empire," to be taught by Frederick Gerstell of the Lawrenceville School, will be an historical and literary examination of the downfall of the British Empire, while Elizabeth Ettinghausen's "Islamic Architecture" will study the culture of the Islamic Middle East and North Africa through the development of its architecture. "What We Need to Know about the Nuclear Arms Race" will explore another question that is much in the news.

Armchair Travel. For those who simply want the pure joy of seeing and learning about faraway places without the expense of the plane fare, "When the Going was Good II" will continue the Adult School's enormously successful travel series, as six visitors to exotic lands (including Ecuador, Japan, Crete, Peru, Iceland and Greenland, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Greece and Egypt) will share their experiences and their slides with an enthusiastic group of armchair travelers.

For people who are interested in traveling on a local basis, and on their own feet, "Running: From Start to Finish" will offer information and advice for both novice and experienced runners.

The Adult School is particularly pleased to offer two five-week courses this semester in conjunction with the McCarter Theatre. Entitled "Backstage at McCarter," these courses will each provide a backstage look at the evolution of a McCarter production from rehearsal to opening night, with one studying "Custer" and the other "The Play's the Thing." Noreen Tomassi and Nagle Jackson will be among the members of the Theatre's staff who will be leading discussions.

A number of other special new courses will appeal to varied interests: "The Mystery of the Human Heart" will introduce the layman to cardiology and the treatment of cardiac disease; "Contemporary Poetry" will study the verse of Robert Lowell, Elizabeth Bishop, Theodore Roethke, Sylvia Plath and others; "Speechcraft" will teach students to think and speak on their feet; and "Microcomputer Literacy" will introduce the uninitiated to the world of computers and programming. "My Turn: The Reentry Woman" will aid women who are returning to the work force, and "Biofeedback and Stress Management" will present techniques for controlling stress.

Favorite Courses Retained. In adding these new courses, the Adult School has not forgotten the regular attenders and their favorite subjects. As usual, first semester courses in Italian, German, Spanish and French will be continued into the spring semester. Anyone wishing to enter these courses this term should consult the instructors on registration night, January 29 to see if their ability is approximately equal to that of the rest of the class.

In addition, "Discussions of Italian Masterpieces" and "English for Speakers of Other Languages" will be open to new students. Folk guitar (on three levels), piano study, "Beginning Recorder," "Painting in Oils and Acrylics" and "Calligraphy" will also be offered again this spring as will "Creative Writing," "Writing on the Job," and "Financial Planning and Investments."

The popular "Introduction to the Photographic Darkroom" and "An Introduction to 35mm Photography" will be given again, along with "Japanese Flower Arranging" and the "Ukrainian Egg Workshop." New courses in the area of visual and performing arts include "Primitive Rug Hooking," "Wall Stenciling," and "The Evolution of Music." "Indian and Brazilian Cooking" is a new offering in the area of culinary arts, while "Card Magic for Beginners" represents the School's first foray into the realm of magic.

Spring term classes begin on February 10, for Tuesday classes, and on February 12, for Thursday classes. Unless specified, the courses run for ten weeks. It is possible to register by mail, using the coupons in the Adult School booklet (which is available at the Princeton Public Library) or the coupons in the newspaper advertisements.

Prospective students can register in person on Thursday, January 29 at the Princeton High School Cafeteria, Registration is in the order received, and each year, many are disappointed because the classes they wish to take are already registered to capacity.

Further information can be obtained by calling 883-5675 on weekday nights between 7 and 10 only.

IN COMPETITION

For ETS Awards. Ninety-one students from across the country will gather this week and next for three days of semi-finalist auditions in Educational Testing Service's Arts Recognition and Talent Search Program.

This Thursday, 31 semi-finalists in theatre will perform in the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. Performances will include theatre games and improvisations, as well as more formal presentations.

On Saturday, 30 semi-finalists in music, including five vocalists, will appear before judges in Bristol Chapel of Westminster Choir College. The 30 dancers in the program will appear on Saturday, January 31 in Hopewell Valley Regional High School.

This is the second year of the ETS project. Semi-finalists submitted either video or audio tapes to preliminary judges. A competition in the visual arts and in writing is also in the judging stage. Announcements of winners will be made March 15.

OBEDIENCE TRIAL SET

By Dog Training Club. The Princeton Dog Training Club will hold its 24th annual All-Breed Obedience Trial on Saturday, January 31, from 7:30 a.m.-6 p.m. at Princeton Dog School, The Great Road.

Entries from many states will compete in the six classes sanctioned by the American Kennel Club. The entries will represent many different breeds of dogs.

The handlers and their dogs will compete for one of the four obedience titles offered by the American Kennel Club. In addition, they will compete for class awards and trophies as well as 84 special prizes.

The Princeton Dog Training Club, founded in 1952, holds three obedience and breed handling sessions a year for dog owners. Dog obedience is the art of instructing the dog to obey the commands of the handler. Breed handling is the art of showing a dog to the best representation of the breed standard.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

The Trial will be held in an indoor, heated facility with ample parking and refreshments available. For more information and directions for driving, call Pat Hunter, trial secretary, 799-0637, or Joyce Tatsch, publicity chairman, 466-2684.

Library Needs Support.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I hate to see the Princeton Public Library face financial cutbacks. I realize that tightened municipal budgets must give priority to services vital to the community's health and well-being--and rightly so--but I hope this will not cause the library to slide downhill or even mark time.

My dictionary defines library as "a place set apart to contain books and other materials for reading, study, or reference." While our library's books are numerous (but never enough), thoughtfully chosen and varied, it is the "other materials" that make the library a place truly set apart.

I have appreciated the library and its books for years, but only last month when my husband learned he was to leave on a trip to Japan in two weeks, did I realize the richness of the library's "other materials."

As expected, I found books on Japan, on language, culture, cuisine, travel. The library's true potential, however, emerged in the other materials available and the staff's willingness and energy in obtaining them.

In the short time before leaving for Japan, my husband hoped to learn Japanese phrases and their proper pronunciation. The library's record collection includes albums of Japanese language courses. When we realized our record player was broken, my husband could have used the library's players and headsets but his free time did not coincide with library hours.

The library also lends cassettes and even cassette players, with no fee charged. The Japanese language cassettes, in constant circulation in Princeton, were not available. When a library staff member managed to locate one, we were phoned and told that a cassette player and the cassette could be picked up at the desk.

In the meantime I found a travel article on Tokyo listed in The New York Times Index. The library has the issue on microfilm, has microfilm readers and even readers with built-in copiers. There was no delay. The equipment was readily available.

Although problems arising from a sudden trip to Japan are perhaps exotic, the library's ability to cope with them indicates a depth of resources which an individual could duplicate only at great expense.

If the library budget is cut, I wonder what we will lose? Faced with loss, I wonder if we will be willing to contribute funds directly, as has been suggested by Mayor Cawley, to continue the library's excellent service?

The reader and copier mentioned above had been provided by the Friends of the Princeton Public Library. Perhaps this group, funded as it is by tax exempt contributions, can enlarge its fund raising activities to provide the organization for direct assistance to the library.

I hope so. I am sure the community would respond. We need the library. It merits our support.

More Geese Shot.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Another word about the wounded goose on Lake Carnegie of which I wrote last week.

According to the Delaware & Raritan Canal Park Rangers, it is illegal to shoot across the Park. The hunter on Saturday, January 10, was careful to state to Princeton Township police, when he retrieved the bird from the police office, that he had shot it over Princeton Nurseries' property.

However, one of our Township police officers noted during an observation of half an hour or so, that none of the flocks of geese flew over Princeton Nurseries, but all followed a route along Lake Carnegie.

Be that as it may, on Tuesday, January 13, more shooting from Princeton Nurseries occurred, and three geese fell onto the frozen lake. Strange that all should fall on Lake Carnegie if the shots were not made across the canal.

Only one of the three geese was killed outright; the remaining two were wounded. Could so many geese be merely wounded by the buckshot because the range from the Nurseries to the flights of geese along the lake is too great? Were they out of range over the lake? Or are the hunters just bad shots?

As the police and I stood near Route 27 watching, the Park Rangers arrived in a four-wheel-drive vehicle. They called the hunters over to the tow path for a parley. In time, one hunter, leaving his gun behind, strode quickly

Thank You, Landau's.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Once again we want everyone in this community to be aware of the generosity of Landau's. They began the Holiday Season with a party in their store on behalf of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League--SAVE--to announce the arrival of the kittens in their window.

During the month that followed, Landau's was able to find good homes for 89 kittens plus turn a barrel full of dimes and pennies over to us to enable our organization to continue its work with lost and injured animals. What they have done for the animals, our organization, and the community is truly in the best spirit of the season.

Thank you, Landau's.

Book Mart's Ralph Shadovitz Looks Back at 30 Years in Business

The leveling of the Princeton Playhouse is not the only loss of a cultural landmark on Palmer Square.

A vast treasure trove of the printed word is also being dismantled in the sale underway at the Princeton Book Mart. The sale is being held in preparation for the retirement January 31 of Ralph Shadovitz, after 30 years in business. Students, bibliophiles, librarians and loyal customers have been jamming the small book store and gradually emptying out the double-stacked floor-to-ceiling shelves in the 50 percent off sale.

Mr. Shadovitz, who is 63, says he has been planning for his retirement for the past three years. Competition from discount bookstores in shopping malls and the well-publicized problems of the industry are not factors, he insists. Nor is it the much-debated pending development of Palmer Square, although the long delay in finding a new owner for the Square made it impossible for Mr. Shadovitz to sell his business because Palmer Square Inc. was not in a position to guarantee a three-year lease.

Rather, it was simply a matter of 30 years of long hard work, which, no matter how much he enjoyed it, was all out of proportion to the volume of sales, but he was able to make a living at it.

Mr. Shadovitz says, "I believe every book has a long life — except perhaps for fiction. A work of fiction can be dead in six weeks. There is a way he chose to run his business and not in the if you wait long enough."

Toys Originally. A toy and book store had been in that location for 15 years before Mr. Shadovitz bought that part of Zavelle's department store, one of the first shops to go into the newly constructed Palmer Square.

GROUND IS BROKEN
For Plainsboro Shopping Center. The Linpro Corporation has broken ground for Plainsboro's first shopping center and announced plans for a major supermarket chain to occupy 17,000 square feet of the center located on Plainsboro Road.

William L. Klein, director of commercial development for the Linpro Company, owners of Princeton Meadows, said the supermarket which will operate under the I.G.A. name will open in the shopping complex. The I.G.A. market will eventually expand to occupy a total of 25,000 square feet complete with a deli department and an on-premises bakery.

The 65,000 square foot shopping mall, called the Commercial Center, will have some 400 parking spaces. It is scheduled to open in the early fall of this year.

"While some space remains available in the Center," said Mr. Klein, "Century Drugs, an Italian restaurant, an ice cream parlor and a beauty shop are already committed to become tenants. And the First National Bank of Princeton has issued a letter of intent subject to the Controller of the Currency's approval."

Plainsboro has more than 6,000 residents, 4,500 of whom live in Linpro's Princeton Meadows apartment complexes and the population of the Township is expected to triple by 1985.

In addition to Fox Run, Deer Creek, Hunters Glen, Pheasant Hollow and Quail Ridge, all of which are now occupied, Linpro is planning three more residential sections for the Princeton Meadows development.

Zavelle's also included a music and a gift department, all located in inner-connecting stores on the west side of the Square. Each was purchased independently when Zavelle's went out of business. Only the record store is still continuing.

Gradually Mr. Shadovitz got rid of the toys and added more books. "Oh, how he loved to build up the stock," says his wife, Edith, who has been his partner in the business all along.

Mr. Shadovitz's approach was to stock a solid basic inventory, even though some of the books might sell only one or two copies a year. If a book sold slowly, he kept it, re-ordering another copy or two the moment the fast copy was sold, and he did this as long as there was any kind of demand.

An economics major in college, he knew that this was poor economics and that it made for a huge inventory out of proportion to the volume of sales, but he was able to make a living at it.

Mr. Shadovitz says, "I believe every book has a long life — except perhaps for fiction. A work of fiction can be dead in six weeks. There is a way he chose to run his business and not in the if you wait long enough."

Unexpected Treasures. The rewards for that kind of patience were moments of serendipity for the customer and the Shadovitzes alike. A customer might come in asking for a title that had been out of print, or that had section of apartments will soon be erected and the first section of townhouses, priced in the $80s and $90s, will be started shortly. Concurrent with that, we'll be developing another section of single family homes in the $150,000 price range."

The Commercial Center shopping complex is part of a 125-acre planned commercial development which, when completed, will include a six-cluster office campus designed for professional, general and corporate offices. It also will include up to 250,000 square feet of additional offices, hospitality facilities and an 85-acre research park. A Medical Center portion of the commercial development is scheduled for completion within a month.

The Plainsboro by-pass, slated for completion late in summer 1981, will be located approximately 1000 feet west of the entrance to The Centers.

Linpro has been active in real estate development and management for 15 years. Besides Princeton Meadows and The Centers the company manages industrial and commercial complexes and a substantial number of residential communities along the East Coast. Linpro's other nearby developments include: Montgomery Glen, Montgomeryville, Pa.; Lincoln Centre, Parsippany, NJ; Village Harbor, Manahawkin, NJ; The Woods, Ambler, Pa.; and Greentree Village in Marlton, NJ.

FIRM PLANS 2ND OFFICE
In Plainsboro. The Linpro Company, developers of The Centers at Princeton Meadows, has announced that received little attention when first published, or that was a specialized treatment of a particular subject.

Mr. Shadovitz would get a faraway look in his eyes as he thought for several moments. Then he would say, "I think we have that," climb a little ladder to reach in behind the front row of books on a top shelf and pull out from the second row the very book the customer had been looking for.

When he began his business, the paperback revolution had not yet taken place, and the unique plan of having book stores just devoted to paperback books had not yet occurred. But when it did, Mr. Shadovitz saw the likelihood that stores that concentrated in hardbacks would become a rarity. Although he eventually installed a full line of paperback classics in the basement, the emphasis remained on the hardbacks.

He had the Everyman Classics from Great Britain, the Modern Library series long after it was discontinued, the Scribner and the Dodd Mead classics. He kept a full line of poetry by well- and little-known poets, and he stocked hardbacks by certain authors long after the book had come out in paperback.

Hardcover Preferred. For these authors — Faulkner, Hemingway, Saul Bellow, Grahame Green, Virginia Woolf, E.B. White, C.P. Snow — there was always a demand for their work in hardcover. This was also true of Princeton authors, such as George Kennan and David Lilienthal.

Mr. Shadovitz made a point of putting titles of Princeton authors in his front window, but Princeton had such an over-abundance of authors that it got so he never had ticks will open a second office in The Centers at Princeton Meadows this spring.

William L. Klein, director of commercial development for Linpro, said the law firm will occupy more than 1,000 square feet of office space in the first of six office clusters in The Centers.

Plainsboro has more than 6,000 residents of whom 4,500 live in the Princeton Meadows apartment complexes developed by the Linpro Company. The Centers will ultimately be comprised of six office clusters in a campus-like setting in which professional, medical and general business offices will be located.

John Houghton of Princeton, associated with John Houghton, Realtor, 228 Alexander Street, has earned the Graduate Realtor Institute (GRI) designation from the New Jersey Association of Realtors. The award was made at a graduation ceremony during the 64th Annual NJAR Convention at the Resorts International Hotel, Atlantic City.

room for any other books. "Everyone here is writing — it's enough to give one an inferiority complex," he says good-naturedly.

His customers came to rely on his recommendations for book gifts, and they also asked him to mail them to recipients all over the world. As he filled their special order requests, he was in contact with more than 100 publishing houses.

What he describes as the "toughest part of my job" was the book fairs at area private schools for which he supplied a sampling of books in all categories. He sent at least 1,000 titles to each fair and then did all the ordering afterwards. Both Shadovitzes groan as they recall the year in which there were five book fairs in two months times.

Libraries Were Customers. He also sold to area libraries, such as the ETS library and the Institute for Advanced Study. Going out of business has meant notifying each of these as well as remembering to turn off the flow of books from each of the 100 publishers. "I can't just walk out," he says. "There's too much responsibility, too much we've had to do."

Mr. Shadovitz has been somewhat overwhelmed by how many people have come in to express their regret at his leaving and to wish them well. "We've made many good friends," he says. He hopes another bookstore will come in where he is vacating.

The Shadovitzes are looking forward to having time to do all the things they never had time to do over the years. Among other things, this includes reading.

College Inn Reopens as The Green Line Diner With Emphasis on Whole Grain Natural Foods

The similarity in the menu offerings at the Green Line Diner, 173 Nassau Street, and the food served at the Whole Earth Center lunch counter before it collapsed from over-success is both logical and intentional.

Geoff White, former manager of the Whole Earth Center, and his wife, Harriet, have assumed the management of what used to be The College Inn, operated by Trudy and Frank Pietrino. Nina Stryker, former cook at the Whole Earth Center restaurant, is the dinner cook at the Green Line Diner.

are posted every day among the dinner offerings, the fare is tilted toward the vegetarian.

dish and a bean dish as well as a lighter vegetarian dish such as vegetable kebabs.

Freshly squeezed carrot or grapefruit juice and cider are available, and for every type of caffeinated tea there is a decaffeinated counterpart. Coffee is available, and sugar to go with it, but there is also a honey jar on every table, and most of the baked goods are made with honey or molasses.

Mr. White says he does not wish to impose his own vegetarian preferences on people, but he points out that every other restaurant in town serves meat and he sees no compelling reason to compete with them on those grounds. What he seeks to do is to offer high quality food at reasonable prices so that University students, working people and single individuals can get a good value for their dollar.

A large bowl of soup, an entree such as a vegetable nutburger or macaroni and cheese, plus dessert and beverage are available for $5 at lunchtime. Hearty sandwiches and salads are less, and are available for take-out.

Bring Your Own Wine. At dinnertime, tablecloths and napkins transform the back room into less of a diner and more of a family restaurant. Customers are encouraged to bring their own wine, for which there is no corkage fee, and relax over a choice of six entrees ranging from $2.50 to $5.50 for chicken breasts. The entrees always include a pasta

Ann Harwood, who has taught cooking classes to adults and children at the Adult School as well as in her home, is managing the daily operations, and Lucy Pruitt is the lunchtime cook.

"I know I am something of an idealist," says Mr. White, "but we are doing exactly what we wanted to do — providing food that is really good at a price people can afford." Mr. White is encouraging his patrons not to smoke, partly for reasons of health and ventilation and partly because smoking is inconsistent with his efforts at quality.

He plans to offer choices for those who are diabetics and those who are on a salt-free diet, and occasionally to have wheat-free macaroni for those allergic to wheat.

RELIGION

In Princeton

CHURCH CHANGES NAME

Becomes Affiliated with PCA. Christ Church of Princeton has changed its name and will now be known as Princeton Presbyterian Church.

Christ Church has been meeting at the Boychoir School on Lambert Drive for two years.

In September, the church was received into the Philadelphia Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in America and presented its formal charter for organization into the PCA last week.

The decision for the change in name was made in order to alleviate confusion between Christ Church and other churches in the area with similar names.

Visitors' Sunday. Princeton Presbyterian Church will hold a special Visitors' Sunday on January 25 for the morning and evening services at the Boychoir School on Lambert Drive.

The Rev. Kenneth Smith will speak at the morning worship service which begins at 11. Refreshments will be served before the service, starting at 10:30.

At the evening service, the television version of C.S. Lewis' "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe" will be presented. The movie begins at 6. For more information, call 921-1020.

BULLETIN NOTES

All Saints' Church on Van Dyke Road will present a choral evensong and organ recital Sunday at 5:30. Under the direction of Lois Laverty, the choir will lead the singing of the canticles in Gregorian tone, as well as performing the motet "Sicut cervus" by Palestrina.

This brief service will be followed by an organ recital played by David Chalmers, All Saints' organist and a junior at Westminster Choir

Cottage. His program will include Prelude and Fugue in B minor by Bach, chorale preludes by Bach, Dupre, and Peeters, and varied selections by Widor, Durufle and Vierne.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

The Hittell Association of Princeton University will sponsor Israeli folkdancing and a party with live music Saturday at 185 Nassau Street. There will be instruction of some of the Israeli folkdance steps beginning at 7:30 and requests for particular dances starting at 8:30.

Participants should bring refreshments to share.

The Rev. Robert Mueller of San Clemente, Calif., will conduct special services at the Christian Center of Princeton, 226 North Harrison Street Thursday through Saturday at 7:30 each evening and on Sunday at 10:45. The Rev. Mueller is the senior minister of South County Christian Center and is known for his strong prophetic ministry.

Services at The Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street, begin at 8:15 on Fridays, with the exception of the 6-6:30 p.m. service on the first Friday of each month. Saturday worship begins at 10.

There will be a special meeting of the congregation of Nassau Presbyterian Church Sunday following the 10 a.m. worship service. The meeting has been called for the purpose of acting upon the 1981 budget as recommended by the Session and electing pastoral care deacons.

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse," and "Girl Friday," should be replaced, respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/W)" and "General Office Work M/W." TOWN TOPICS has a copy of the Division of Civil Rights booklet, "A Guide for Employers to the New Jersey Law against Discrimination," and will provide assistance in the wording of all such ads upon request. Advertisers' cooperation is sought in meeting the requirements of the law.

This small ranch, at the end of a quiet lane near Nassau Street, may surprise you with its spaciousness and practicality; perhaps you'll see the back yard as the perfect spot for winter snowmen or summer play. Having a full, open lower level may be useful...BUT, we feel that the price makes this property the best buy in town!

If you want to live in Princeton, but you just can't afford the mortgage payments, then look at this brick and yellow clapboard house in the Riverside section. The three bedrooms and two baths, the living areas, and such will be ideal PLUS a tenant for the two-room wing will help to pay the mortgage! See it today.

$125,000

This house, in a quiet neighborhood of Princeton, offers a lovely living room with a fireplace, a separate dining room, a family room, TWO master bedrooms, each with attached bath, and 2 additional bedrooms...and it's just a short distance to shopping, schools, public transportation, etc.

$129,500

The setting isn't everything! Though the lovely yard and the Green Acres background may be important, it's the house itself which is outstanding! Beautifully maintained and handsomely decorated, this house has ample space: living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, office, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, and more.

$179,500

We are offering a four-bedroom split-level house on State Road in Princeton for immediate occupancy. It faces a busy road, yet the back yard and the screened porch are attractive and private.

$124,000

A Cape Cod style house, with FIVE bedrooms, with great flexibility—remodel it into a house with a family room on the first floor, create a master bedroom suite, or use the rooms as they are for several studies or bedrooms. Upstairs are two bedrooms and a bath, while the basement level, open to the back, has a recreation room.

Group of Young Men and Women, Grateful for Past Help, Seek to Rejuvenate Problem-Ridden Paul Robeson Center

Sparked by a group of young men who remember what the place did for them, and want it to be that way again, the Paul Robeson Community Center just possibly may be ready for what one of the young men calls "rejuvenation."

The most recent director was fired last week. He was the latest in a long line of directors who have walked out the door in unfavorable circumstances of various origin.

Last Thursday, the Center celebrated Martin Luther King Day with a "Town Meeting," hoping to find out what people want their center to do.

This Tuesday night, the new acting director, William McCoy Jr., was scheduled to go before the Center's board of directors, formally receive his new title and discuss programs with the board. A student at Trenton State, Mr. McCoy has been Recreation Director of the Center since last fall.

The Center is located in the square brick building on the corner of Witherspoon, Green Street and Paul Robeson Place. It used to be the black "Y". Then it was a Borough municipal building. Then it became the Princeton Youth Center. For several years now, it has been the Paul Robeson Community Center, named for the black singer, scholar, athlete and humanitarian who was born in a house nearby. The Borough still owns the building.

A year ago, in December of 1979, the Center seemed to be on its death-bed. It had been there before. A meeting was held in the Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church to talk it over. The Rev. Leon Gipson, pastor of the church and former chairman of the Center's board, asked whether anyone present would be willing to serve on the board.

Four young men stood up: Earl McQueen, John Rose, Charles Steel and Thomas Parker.

HOLDING THE CENTER: Sherry Wells, administrative assistant at the Paul Robeson Community Center, is a full-time Center staff member and one of a corps of young men and women who want to see the Center succeed.

Mr. McQueen recalled this week that he had returned home to Princeton in 1977, after earning his architecture degree at Hampton Institute, in part because of the Paul Robeson Center — the "Princeton Youth Center" of his earlier years.

"I wanted to join the board and do for the Center what it had done for me," Mr. McQueen said. "In those days, I'd go to the public library after school, then drop in at the Center on my way home. There was a lot of Center activity in conjunction with the schools. They were promoting college for black kids, and they encouraged me to go. I think the Center helped us get ourselves together while we were still in high school."

After graduation from Hampton in 1977, Mr. McQueen came back to Princeton, worked for Uniplan and is now an architect with E. Harvey Myers.

Lack of interest. It wasn't standing-room-only at last Thursday's "Town Meeting." Maybe five people, exclusive of board members.

"Response was poor, yes," Mr. McQueen remarks, "and I'd taken flyers, personally, around to homes."

Mr. Steele, who is now chairman of the board, acknowledges that participation in Center programs "is not on as large a scale as we would like, but kids have come and there are some programs interesting for some kids."

A Princeton resident for ten years, Mr. Steele worked at the Center when he was a student at Princeton Theological Seminary.

"I'd like to see more family-oriented programs and more youth programs," he continues. "We have good attendance at films, and I'd like more films, in the educational area."

Two programs, Food Stamps and "Outreach," for senior citizens are described by Mr. Steele as "very important — essential to the structure of the Center," and he'd like to see more of these.

"It's important for the eastern part of Mercer County, where we are, to receive more services. I've talked with Social Security, for example. We need a Social Security place here, so people won't have to go all the way to Trenton."

"There's a lot of potential in the Center — it's within walking distance for elderly people; centrally located enough to attract the whole community at large, maybe with space to house various organizations."

Like his fellow board members, Thomas Parker wants the Center to function more fully. He remembers that, through the Center, he had a chance to join recreational activities he never could have afforded otherwise.

"I saw the way a professional administration worked," he remembers, "and there was a positiveness that was the reason I went on to Rutgers and then Northeastern after high school. I still feel the community has this need."

"Helping youth in their educational development, helping senior citizens in ways they can't be helped anywhere else — the Center plays a very important role in the community."

"I'd like to see cultural events, too. When Don Evans was director, there was theatre in the Center and everyone had a chance to participate or to be exposed to other theatres, through field trips. That could be achieved again."

Mr. Evans, at that time an English teacher at Princeton High School specializing in drama, is a well-known playwright in the area.

How many do participate in Center offerings?

Barbara Schreyer, board member who also runs the Outreach program, reports that 504 people "came through the door" in December. Some of this is duplication, like the 198 young people listed for the Recreation program. This

FROM AILEY: Dancers from the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre will perform three times at McCarter Theatre in early February.

News Of The THEATRES

PROGRAM CHANGES

For Alley. Changes in the program announced last week for the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre were announced this week by McCarter. The company will give three performances at McCarter Monday through Wednesday, February 9-11, all at 8 p.m.

For its opening program on Monday, the Ailey company will perform Raef Lamb's duet called "Butterfly." The program will continue with "The Time Before the Time After," to music by Stravinsky; "Rainbow 'Round my Shoulder" and the familiar "Revelations." The latter two are both set to traditional music, including spirituals and blues.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the Ailey dancers will give two premieres: Billy Wilson's "Concerto in F," to Gershwin's music, and Elisa Mente's "Treading," to music by the contemporary "third-stream" composer, Steve Reich. This program will also include two works by Alvin Alley, "Night Creature" and "Memoria."

'PINOCCHIO'
Twice, for Kids. The Walt Disney "Pinocchio," from 1940, will be screened twice this Saturday—at 11 and 2—as the next presentation in the

STRING CONCERT SET

By Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra. The MCSO String Training Ensemble will present its second annual Winter Concert at the Edith Memorial Chapel of The Lawrenceville School on Sunday, February 1, at 2. Admission is free.

The String Training Ensemble offers professional guidance to young musicians ranging in age from 7-16. They rehearse weekly to learn the fundamentals of music, acquire the skills of ensemble playing, and broaden their orchestral repertoires. The group has approximately 60 members; Portia Sonnenfeld is conductor.

The program will include selections by Bach and Corelli from the Baroque period and suites by Bartok and Hindemith from the contrasting contemporary era. Valerie Clemans of Pennington will be a featured soloist.

The program will conclude with a suite of six Renaissance French dances arranged by Paul Hindemith. Since this selection is scored for full orchestra, the woodwind, brass and percussion parts will be performed by parents and friends of the String Ensemble players.

Sunday matinees February 15 and 22. Performances will be in the PCP Playhouse, 171 Broadmead.

"No God in the Valley," by New Jersey playwright Louis Revessz, will have Herbert McAneny, Lee Harrod and Ralph Siegal in the cast. Julia Paulos will direct.

For Anton Chekov's "The Brute," director Dick Newman has Rip Pellaton, Wayne Wieser and Barbara Herzberg.

In "The Stranger," by August Strindberg, the cast will consist of only two actors: Rita Rose and Celia Munroe-Jones. The director is Susan Zimmerman, who is also the producer for all three plays.

presentation.

Winthrop began his concert career in the late sixties playing the folk clubs of Greenwich Village. Since then, his mellifluous folk-jazz sound has entertained audiences throughout the country.

The Eatery Amulette is located five minutes northeast of the Princeton Forrestal Center, just off Route 1 on Ridge Road. The fare for the evening features hearty soups, fresh salads, light suppers, desserts, fruit and cheese boards and assorted snacks and drinks. There is a one dollar cover charge (none with a small minimum).

Music starts at 8:00. For further information, call (201) 329-2777.

recital is free and open to the public.

Mr. Lloyd will open his program with a Handel aria from "Atalanta" followed by songs by Beethoven, Schubert, Faure, Debussy and Hugo Wolf. He will end the program with two modern American composers, David Diamond (two songs on poems by Carson McCullers and Dylan Thomas), and Thomas Pasatieri (two songs on poems by Emily Dickinson). Pasatieri is a young New York composer (born 1945) whose opera has just been performed by the New York City Opera Co.

In his second year on the faculty at Westminster, Mr. Lloyd is a bassoonist as well as a singer. He holds degrees from Oberlin and Yale School of Music with an added degree in counseling from Yale Divinity School.

AUDITIONS PLANNED
For N.J. Opera Scholarships. The New Jersey State Opera announces the sixth annual Scholarship Award Auditions for young professional singers between the ages of 22 and 34 years of age.

Preliminary auditions will be held in April at Rutgers University in Camden, the State Museum in Trenton and at the New Jersey Institute of Technology in Newark. The semi-final auditions will be held on April 24 at Symphony Hall in Newark, with a concert in June for the finalists.

Scholarship awards have been donated by Harrison Weaver, president of the New Jersey State Opera in memory of his wife Jane; by Mrs. William Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grasso, Mr. Gerald Title, and Mrs. Patricia Brady-Danzig. The Puccini Foundation is awarding a scholarship of $1,500 which will be presented by Madame Licinia Albanese.

Other available scholarships are in the amounts of $2,000 and two of $1,000 each. The winners of these awards will also be considered for a contract with the New Jersey State Opera.

For further information write or call the Auditions Dept. of the New Jersey State Opera, 1020 Broad Street, Newark, 07102, (201) 623-5757. The deadline for application returns will be March 3.

GUITARIST FEATURED
In Eatery Amulette Coffeeshop. On Friday the Eatery Amulette Restaurant will present a coffeehouse, featuring singer-guitarist Richard Winthrop, who will perform his original music.

"Light, Love and Harmony," the theme for a series of concerts being presented by Mr. Winthrop in conjunction with other New Jersey songwriters, will be the theme for the evening's informal

Ms. Hair will be joined by Stanley Hoffman, violin, Joan Waryha, clarinet, and David See, piano—all of New York—in a performance of Olivier Messiaen's "Quatuor pour la fin du temps."

LOOKING BACK ... AND AHEAD

We are pleased to report that our sales in 1980 reached record levels.

We attribute this significant increase to a continuing policy that combines high quality and sensible prices. We believe that other factors include: courteous, professional service; master fitting and tailoring, and a tasteful selection of clothing and accessories.

To meet our customers' requirements this past year, we expanded our selection and upgraded several lines - without violating our moderate price policy. We plan additional refinements in coming months.

If you are a current customer, we look forward to seeing you in the coming weeks. If you are not, or have not been in for some time, we hope that you will stop in to acquaint yourself with our fine lines of traditional clothing and accessories. All at sensible prices.

Our 105th Semi-Annual Sale is now in progress.

IT'S NEW*To Us*KONDITOREI

For Continental Cuisine. Konditorei is a new food shop in Hopewell that combines kitchen and cafe, offering coffee and Danish in the morning, continental cuisine at lunch, a take-out service and catering — and all foods are home-made.

Owners Jo Anne Armstrong and Ethel Terhune borrowed the idea from the Konditoreis (Kon-dee-ter-eyes) — small pastry shops in Germany, Austria and Switzerland — where patrons meet and linger, sometimes conducting business, over coffee, wine and dessert. The Konditorei in Hopewell encourages their patrons to dine in the same unhurried manner and invites them to bring their favorite wine or beer to accompany their lunch.

A warm and welcoming decor has been created with green carpeting, rust and green stenciled wallpaper and rustic serving counter. Flourishing plants, antique kitchen collectibles and an eclectic mix of prints, paintings and photographs lend old-fashioned charm.

Ethel Terhune (left) and Jo Anne Armstrong, owners, offer coffee and Danish 9:30-11, and lunch 11:30-2, in an attractive, home-like setting, and take-outs are available. Appetizers, entrees, breads, and desserts can be ordered for family meals or parties.

Small, antique tables with an assortment of chairs and round skirted tables with ice cream parlor chairs seat 22 people. Delicious cooking aromas from the fresh foods being prepared in the kitchen quicken the appetite.

Complementary Talents. Jo Anne and Ethel are friends and neighbors with children the same ages and their families participate in many activities together. During the course of their friendship, the women talked about starting a business of their own.

Jo Anne had retired from the nursing profession when her children were born and began a hobby in creative cooking which led to professional cooking experience at the Now Day Nursery. Ethel worked for a direct mail firm and had acquired diverse experience in the business field. Their talents were complementary and their business partnership became a reality with Konditorei.

The daily à la carte menu at Konditorei includes a pita bread and vegetable sandwich — shredded vegetables and monter cheese with dill-seasoned sour cream, $2; a chef salad pita sandwich — sliced ham, cheese and vegetables with Russian dressing, $2; and a Mexican Tostada — crisp tortilla topped with Mexican beans, shredded lettuce, tomato, onion and cheese, $1.50.

Hot entrees are Spanakopita, $2, or a vegetable quiche, $1.50. Special entrees, offered every Wednesday and Friday, might be egg foo yung, hamburger stroganoff in pita, chicken Kiev, noodle, kraut and sausage bake, moussaka, manicotti or potato pancakes, $2.50-$4.

Entrees served with homemade bread and pot, mixed antipasto vegetables, a side dish and beverage are $3.50. Desserts — fruit bowl, fresh fruit, or home-made cakes and pastries from the dessert tray — are 35 to 90 cents. Beverages include coffee, tea, milk, soda or cider — 30 to 50 cents. Box lunches to go — an entree, fresh fruit and dessert — are $3.

Party Planning. Special home-made items, which can be ordered for family meals or parties include appetizers — Chinese chicken wings, stuffed vine leaves and seafood stuffed phyllo; main dishes — cheese and vegetable quiches, Spanakopita and chicken Kiev; desserts — Baklava, chocolate marzipan cake, Swiss almond torte, fruit pies or strawberry liqueur tarts; and breads — French, Greek sesame, Cuban and whole wheat honey.

Konditorei's staff in the role of party consultants will help plan menus and supply the food from hors d'oeuvre through dessert. Hostesses may also select from a group of foods prepared, frozen and ready for the oven.

Konditorei is 48 W. Broad Street, Hopewell House Square, Hopewell. Coffee and breakfast breads are served from 9:30 to 11; luncheon from 11:30-2. The shop is open 9:30-3 Tuesday through Friday; Saturday 10:30-3. Phone 609-466-1221.

When warm weather arrives, Konditorei hopes to set up tables for alfresco dining under a huge shade tree in a grassy strip along the square — a happy prospect that brings us closer to spring.

energy savers, heaters, tools, housewares and winter driving aids to help you cope with winter weather and even enjoy it! Energy savers conserve fuel and auxiliary heaters supply spot warmth.

Tools and supplies facilitate snow removal, speed wood-cutting and make winter driving easier. New housewares inspire winter cooking and baking, and fireplace furnishings set the stage for cozy fireside evenings. The store's selection of bird feeders and seed will attract a variety of birds and provide ongoing entertainment.

Energy Savers. Weatherstripping which reduces heat loss around windows and doors includes foam with adhesive backing, Mortite weatherstripping and caulking cord and self-adhesive door seals and door bottoms. Expandable (creamy) insulating foam, which can be squeezed into cracks, magnetic exhaust fan covers and garage door bottoms keep out drafts.

Foam pipewrap or thermostatically controlled electrical heat tape prevent pipes from freezing, insulation for hot water tanks holds in heat, and plastic sheeting in various sizes and thicknesses is available for make-your-own storm windows.

Heaters. Auxiliary heaters provide extra warmth in rooms with fuel-conserving temperatures. Intermatic Heatwave is a compact heater for use under desks in offices. Northern's automatic steam Superelectric's larger heater vaporizer restores humidity to be used for spot heating, the air.

THE HEAT'S ON and very comforting when provided by any of the auxiliary heaters at Princeton Hardware, shown with Joe Luther, owner. Electric, quartz, or kerosene models provide extra warmth while you work or relax. The store has many other comforts and conveniences - energy savers, tools, housewares and car needs - to help you weather the winter.

quartz heaters by Sunbeam Winter Tools. Supplies. and Superelectric send heat directly to people and objects, and Aladdin's kerosene heater warms an area 16 x 20 feet.

Northern's electric blankets, double size with single and dual controls, provide cozy lightweight warmth in cool bedrooms.

Axes, splitting mauls and wedges and electric or gas chain saws are efficient wood-cutting aids; "Lift and Cut" by Oregon hoists logs off the ground for easier sawing and keeps chain saws from hitting rocks or the ground; $33.99. Windshield scrapers and brushes, dry gas, lock de-icers, traction sand and salt and a short-handled car shovel, which fits inside the trunk, make winter driving easier.

Winter Housewares. Cookware for hearty winter foods—soups, stews, casseroles, breads, cakes, pies, griddle cakes—can be selected from Ekco's Baker's Secret, Pyrex, Farberware, Revere Ware, Wagner Ware and Wearever.

"Heat, Serve and Store Souper" in almond enamelware with plastic top conveys soup from stove to table to fridge and is sale-priced at $7.95. Braun's Citromatic electric juicer extracts juice from citrus fruit; Braun's Multipress makes juice from fresh vegetables or fruits.

Fireplace furnishings include log cradles, grates, glass fireplace enclosures, fire screens, and black, brass, or black and brass andirons and tool sets.

"Blazeban," a new fire-proof hearth rug, comes in a tweedy mixture of gold, brown or green. Door mats—cocoa fiber, seagrass, rubber, carpet bonded to vinyl—help keep mud or snow outside.

Make the most of housebound winter days by reorganizing and increasing your storage areas. Schulte's Stor-Racks of vinyl-coated steel, available in 12, 18 and 24 inch widths and one to six foot lengths, fit in unused space behind doors, above counters and inside closets. Grayline's helper shelves of vinyl-coated steel double existing shelf space.

Birds and Flowers. Products that aid in the winter care of houseplants include Ortho and Stern's insecticides, fungicides, and fertilizers, potting soil, plastic or clay pots and G.E. grow lights. Burpee's new garden seeds will arrive by the end of January and peat pots and starter kits will be available.

The large selection of redwood and K Enterprises bird feeders include a large K feeder with three tubes, a domed squirrel baffle and seed tray, $31.95. Cracked corn and sunflower seed, plain sunflower seed, plain sunflower and thistle seed is available in 2½ lb. to 50 lb. bags.

Princeton Hardware moved to its new location next to Bon Appetit in September, gaining larger space for greater service to customers. Store hours are 8:30-6 Monday through Thursday, 8:30-8:30 Friday, 8:30-5 Saturday and 10-2 Sunday. Joe Luther is owner. Phone 924-5155.

EXHIBIT AT SQUIBB
Paintings and Sculpture. An exhibition featuring paintings by Jon Schueler and sculptures by Peter Chinni has opened at The Squibb Gallery and will continue until February 22.

Schueler's large, powerful oil paintings depict the sky of Scotland, where he lived from 1970-75. They range as large as 79 x 228" and, although abstract, unmistakably convey the drama and beauty of the Sound of Sleat on the Scottish coast.

The magazine "Art in America," reviewing a Schueler exhibition at the Whitney Museum, said, "The paintings are bardic, intensely charged with eloquence and passion. In each work, the brushwork is the heartbeat ... Schueler is transmitting something vast and timeless."

A native of Wisconsin, Schueler holds a masters degree in literature from the University of Wisconsin. He says of his work, "From the claustrophobic terror of my studio I enter the unframed sky."

The sculptures of Peter Chinni are studies in energy, movement and composition. A native of Mt. Kisco, N.Y., he studied with the Art Students League of New York and lived in Italy for many years. He is represented by a brass sculpture and several maquettes in mixed media. Chinni has had one-man shows at Beekestijn Museum, Velsen, Holland, and the Grand Hornu, Belgium, and his works are owned in numerous private collections.

The Squibb Gallery is located in the world headquarters of E.R. Squibb & Sons, on Route 206 three miles south of Princeton. Gallery hours are 9 to 5, Monday through Friday, with extended hours until 9 p.m. Thursday, and from 1 to 5 on weekends.

ART CLASSES PLANNED
For Children at Rutgers. "Collectormania" will be the first in a series of five Saturday art classes for children starting Jan. 24 at the Rutgers University Art Gallery.

Activities in the opening class will be related to an exhibition at the gallery featuring the David and Mildred Morse collection of late 19th-century and early 20th-century French art.

During the series, projects will also be tied to an exhibition of paintings, graphics and sculpture recently acquired by the gallery. Both displays will be at the State University gallery from Jan. 18 through March 1.

Hour classes will meet on five consecutive Saturdays at 10 a.m. for children age 6 through 8, and at 11:15 a.m. for those age 9 through 12. The gallery is in Voorhees Hall on Hamilton Street near George Street, New Brunswick.

Fee for a five-session course is $2. Classes are scheduled as follows: Jan. 24, "Collectormania"; Jan. 31, "I Can Draw"; Feb. 7, "Print It"; Feb. 14, "Wonderful Watercolors"; and Feb. 21, "The Great Gallery Scavenger Hunt."

For additional information or to obtain a registration form, call Stephanie Grunberg, the gallery's curator of education, at (201) 932-7096.

CEGLIA WORKS ON VIEW
At Galley 100. Artist Vincent Ceglia, Mercer County

Mr. Ceglia will show a variety of works in acrylic, watercolor and mixed media, mostly landscape images treated in semi-abstract and sometimes abstract style. A portion of the paintings were done while on sabbatical leave in Italy, including over three months in Rome.

Mr. Ceglia, who lives in Washington Crossing, Pa., recently was awarded the Zimmerman Prize at the 62nd Annual Exhibition of the Philadelphia Watercolor Club. The exhibit will continue until February 8. Gallery hours are from 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

OPENINGS AVAILABLE

Clubs and Organizations

The Princeton Senior Citizens Club has arranged a bus trip to the Watchung View Inn Luncheon Theatre for Thursday, February 12. The all-inclusive price is $16.

For reservations call 921-7311, 924-0527 or 924-0161.

The Princeton Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will hold a Chinese Auction Thursday at 1:30 at the home of Mrs. Carl Weinrich, 4131 Princeton Pike. The proceeds will benefit the many DAR supported schools. The date of the February meeting has been changed to February 26.

The Greater Princeton Jaycees will hold a membership breakfast on Sunday beginning at 11 at the Princeton University Student Center. This informal get together will be the main membership drive opportunity for guests and potential members to become acquainted with the Jaycees. The cost is $4 per person. For more information call Dave Hoyer at 921-6100 or (215) 493-1139.

The Princeton Chapter of the Association for Computing Machinery, along with the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, will present a lecture by Dr. Herbert R.J. Grosch Monday in the Convocation Room, Princeton University Engineering Quadrangle.

Dr. Grosch, who received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan and who is an international consultant, will speak on the interactions of computers and computer people with society. A pre-dinner meeting will be held for interested professionals.

For further information call Doug Dixon, 734-3137, or Ken Burkhardt, (201) 932-3415.

The Princeton Area Alumnae Club of the Alpha Chi Omega national sorority will meet on Monday at 8 at the home of Sharon McEachern in Titusville. Members will work on their Cystic Fibrosis project, directed by Marilyn Moore.

Hostesses for the evening will be Marilyn Moore and April Heestand. For directions or information, interested alumnae may call Mrs. McEachern at 737-9087 or the club president, Mrs. Hunt, at 448-1148.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad will hold a Dutch Maid demonstration on Monday at 8 at the Squad house, North Harrison Street. The public is invited. There will be a meeting for all members at 7 preceding the demonstration.

The Princeton Senior Citizens Club will meet Friday, January 30, at 1 at the Chestnut Street Firehouse. Officers will be elected for the coming year. Members are urged to attend.

The Waldorf School Association of Princeton invites the public to a session on science teaching entitled, "Educating the Imagination III, a Human Approach to Science," on Saturday, from 10:30 to noon at 171 Broadmead.

Alfred Tomlinson, a teacher for 30 years at the Waldorf School in Garden City, Long Island, will engage participants actively in science projects as brought to his students. Mr. Tomlinson has taught children in grades 1-6 for six years and physics and chemistry in the older classes (7-12). He has taught prospective elementary teachers in science and mathematics at Adelphi University.

For further information call 924-7428 or 882-8269.

Mercer S.E.A. (Safe Energy Alternatives) Alliance will meet Tuesday at 7:30 at the Woodrow Wilson School. A short Australian film, made by Friends of the Earth, about the movement against uranium mining, will be shown.

For information call 921-3058.

The Women's College Club will hold its annual party for scholarships on Monday, March 9, at Stuart Country Day School. Proceeds from the events are applied to scholarships and prizes for qualified seniors at Stuart, Princeton Day School, Hun School and Princeton High School.

Among the club members preparing for the party are Martha Hartmann, 178 Moore Street, who will receive mailed-in bids of $200 or more on a 92 by 96 inch white crocheted heirloom bedspread, Margaret Driggs and Betty Hamilton. Mrs. William R. Frazier, 158 Herrontown Road, is chairman of reservations, which are open to the public.

In addition to the silent auction, which will feature an English brass rubbing of a 14th century cleric, a framed picture of the U.S. capitol in Washington, computers, and other items, there will be a Plain and Fancy Sale at 11 and drawings for luncheons.

This is the 6th anniversary of the Women's College Club's scholarship loan and prize program for girls in Princeton secondary schools.

The Griggstown Volunteer Fire Company will hold an "all you can eat" Roast Pork Dinner on Saturday, January 31, at the firehouse on Canal Road. Serving hours will be from 5 to 8. Admission is $6, with children under 10 admitted for $2.

MAJOR EXHIBITION DUE ON WESTERN PAINTING. "American Masters in the West: Selections from the Anschutz Collection" opens Sunday at the Princeton University Art Museum and continues through March 15.

Spanning 100 years of artists' fascination with the great spaces west of the Missouri River to the Pacific Ocean, the exhibition includes 75 paintings selected especially for the Princeton University showing.

The Anschutz Collection presents the entire scope of art and history of the American West, beginning with such artist-explorers as George Catlin, Karl Bodmer and Alfred Jacob Miller, who as early as 1830 painted the North American Indian, capturing the authentic culture and ceremony before the intrusion of Western civilization.

The West — before the expansion of the white man's civilization — is seen in the monumental canvases of Albert Bierstadt, Asher B. Durand, George Inness, Thomas Moran and Ralph Blacklock, who brought their responses to the virgin wilderness and their romances of scenic wonders back to awe the Eastern cities of the United States and Europe.

Indians. George Bellows found the same fascination, as did Stuart Davis, Marsden Hartley, John Marin and Jackson Pollock. Art colonies were formed and flourished in the years between the two world wars, and a new freedom in painting was fostered. Georgia O'Keeffe, whose art responds to the colors and forms of the New Mexican landscape, brings the collection to the present day.

After its showing in Princeton, the exhibition will travel to museums in Europe. The

The Super Bowl has been played at the Coliseum in Los Angeles, the Orange Bowl in Miami, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Tulane Stadium and the Superdome in New Orleans and — the tough one to get — Rice Stadium (and NOT the Astrodome) in Houston ... Super Bowl 8 was in Rice Stadium.

SPORTS In Princeton

CORNELL IS NEXT
For Tiger Hockey Team. Currently in the midst of exams, Princeton University's men's hockey squad returns to action Monday when it travels to Ithaca, to face Cornell in a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Coach Jim Higgins' Tigers have been idle since Jan. 10, when they edged the Crimson at Harvard 3-2. With 12 of its 25 games completed, Princeton sports a 6-6-0 mark overall, and a 4-4-0 log in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), entering Monday's meeting with the Big Red. The Tigers are 1-2-0 against Ivy League opponents.

Besides Monday's encounter at Cornell, the Tigers have two other games on next week's agenda. They will face Brown at Providence, Friday, and Yale at New Haven, Saturday. Both games begin at 7:30.

Cornell enters the week with a 7-3-1 mark overall, and a 3-3-1 showing in the ECAC. The Big Red will host unbeaten Northeastern (11-0-0) Saturday before entertaining the Tigers. Cornell tied Boston College 6-6 in overtime at Chestnut Hill last Friday.

Next weekend's games will close out a string of five consecutive road appearances by the Tigers against Ivy League foes. Princeton returns to Baker Rink Feb. 6-7, when it hosts RPI and Vermont in a pair of 7:30 p.m. games.

Jay Casey leads the Tigers in scoring at mid-season. One of Princeton's tri-captains, Casey has six goals and eight assists for 14 points. Jim Farrel, another tri-captain, and Dave Tweedy are next on the scoring chart with seven goals and four assists for 11 points apiece. Two other Tigers are in double figures with 10 points each. Jim Matthews has six goals and four assists, and Grant Hansen has four goals and six assists.

Ron Dennis has played in all 12 games and has a 3.93 goals against average and a .864 save percentage. He has one shutout to his credit.

OVERTIME A PROBLEM

For Tiger Quintet. If the Princeton University men's basketball team had won all three of its overtime games this season, the team's record would currently be a gaudy 9-5. It lost all three, however, and so the current overall record stands at a less than satisfying 6-8.

The Tigers, in fact, have found it tough sledding all year long when it comes to close encounters. Of 14 games played to date, nine have been decided by five points or less. Six of those nine have been losses, and three of those six losses were in overtime. Only twice has Head Coach Pete Carril's team been involved in blowouts — a 33-point win over Colgate on Dec. 21, and a 26-point loss to Ohio State two days later.

Last Monday, Princeton's overtime blues continued as it could not ever really gain control in any one of three extra sessions while losing to Fordham 53-50 at Jadwin Gym. Earlier in the year, the Tigers had lost to St. Joseph's 51-50 in OT at Jadwin, and also to Northwestern 72-68 in OT during the Far West Classic in Portland.

When asked after last Monday's loss to Fordham if losing so often in overtime was a sign of a lack of courage by this team, Carril responded by saying, "Perhaps we lack ability, perhaps we lack confidence, but I can tell you right now that we don't lack courage."

At this stage last season, Princeton was 2-11 — the worst start in the history of Tiger basketball. Princeton went on to win 13 of its final 17 games and force an Ivy League playoff game with Pennsylvania (which Prince-

Princeton's next game is against the Quakers. It will mark their first meeting on the court since that playoff game last March 4. Three times these two teams met last season with Penn taking two — 58-42 at the Palestra in Philadelphia, as well as the playoff — while Princeton captured one — a 78-69 win in overtime at Jadwin Gym. Penn has an 88-72 advantage in this series which began in 1903.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED

To Tigers' Co-Captain. Mark Bailey, a guard and co-captain of Princeton's 1980 football team, has been awarded a National Collegiate Athletic Association football postgraduate scholarship award-at-large.

Bailey received a $2,000 scholarship for postgraduate study at the university or professional school of his choice. He was one of 15 players selected, one of four players from the second district and the only Ivy League player awarded an NCAA scholarship.

Bailey was named to the All-Ivy team, and received honorable mention as an All-American from the Associated Press. He received praise from Coach Frank Navarro for his play. "Bailey's pass protection was simply superb throughout the season," Navarro said.

Bailey is an electrical engineering major.

the still winless Princeton High School basketball team that four good quarters wouldn't cure. Two won't do it, and that seems to be the most the Little Tigers can string together.

Friday, visiting PHS lead Hopewell Valley 18-2 at one point, but lost, 63-50. Earlier in the week, in another Colonial Valley Conference game, it led Hightstown 15-10 after the opening period before losing that one, 59-47. As a result, the record remains no wins after six starts.

Two more CVC contests lie ahead. PHS will be at Notre Dame Friday evening and at Lawrence High on Tuesday. Both games will start at 8.

HUN MAT COACH Hank Barber believes the roughest part of the Hun schedule is behind him and hopes his Raiders will improve their 1-6 record.

Monday for the first eight minutes, trailing 14-12. Then THS opened the gates. It outscored PHS, 20-9, in the second period and 48-28 in the second half.

"How long can you hold a good team down?" asked PHS coach Marv Trotman. "They're definitely the best around here."

Despite the expected loss, Trotman said that he saw some good things in the game by his struggling team. He cited Larry McKellar and Pat McAvia for their work under the boards and the steady play of guard Dave Barclay.

"If we rebound like we did tonight against other teams we're going to be in a lot of games," he said. Shooting — not rebounding — was again a problem for the losers, who have averaged only 48 points a game. The Little Tigers were an ineffective 19-of-57 from the floor while Trenton was sinking almost half of its shots — 35 of 72.

McKellar paced the Little Tigers with 16 points, while McAvia had his best offensive performance of the season, connecting for 10 points. Barclay and Peter Sharpless each added six.

Andrew Baker, Trenton's top gun, tossed in 19 and also led his team in rebounds with eight. Teammate Joe Johnson added 13 while Al Morgan and Leroy McCoy combined for 20 more.

WORST MAY BE OVER

For Hun Wrestling Team. "From here on in the schedule gets a little easier; there are no more Delbartons and Blairs," observed Hun wrestling coach Hank Barber last week, after Hun had been routed in a triangular meet to drop its record to 1-6.

Earlier in the week, Hun was leading George School, 25-8, at the halfway point but failed to win a single one of the remaining six matches and bowed, 39-23. "If we could have stopped after the 135-pound match it would have been great," said Barber. Inexperience in the upper weights has hurt the Raiders this season.

Hun will take the first step in trying to even its record this Wednesday when it plays host to Girard.

Barber did not expect Hun to do well against Delbarton and Blair in Friday's triangular meet in Delbarton, and Hun was indeed outclassed.

The only Raider to win in a 59-12 loss to Delbarton was Hun's undefeated 101-pounder, Brian Murray. The freshman from South Brunswick raised his record to 8-0 when he pinned his Delbarton opponent in the second period.

NO SURPRISE HERE

Trenton 82, PHS 49. Take the area's top-ranked team and match it against a team that hasn't won a game and the result, as expected, reads Trenton 82, Princeton High, 49. For the Tornadoes it was their 12th victory in thirteen games; for the Little Tigers their seventh consecutive loss.

Princeton High, a good first-quarter team, stayed with the home-team Tornadoes with a reverse cradle. Until then, Murray had been forfeit the 170-pound class. trailing in the match, 7-2. Hun Hun has no 188-pounder and picked up six more points when Delbarton forfeited the heavyweight bout.

It was much the same for Hun in its 52-9 rout by Blair. Once again, Murray came through with a second-period pin but the only other points Hun could muster came in the 129-pound match where Scott Carter, after falling behind, 5-1, came on to win a 9-6 decision.

Against George School earlier in the week, Hun won four and tied one of the first six bouts. Murray started it off with a pin in the second period. There was a 3-3 draw at 108 pounds and George gained a fall at 115 pounds.

Hun widened its margin, however, by scoring 17 points in the next three bouts. Judd Olivero flattened his 122-pound opponent, Scott Crater followed with a first-period pin and brother John Crater breezed to a 15-3, 5-point superior decision.

"And that was it," sighed Barber. A key match, he said, was 148 pounds. Hun's Chris Black was leading, 4-0, when he got caught in a cradle and pinned. "That really hurt," said Barber.

George School collected 18 points in the last three bouts to win it. Ted Lafsharis reinjured points from their lower weights. "Nothing at all," said Murray. Hightstown, for example, winner of the Mercer County Christmas tournament this year, rolled to a 37-0 lead before Geoff Cramer, PHS 148 pounder, battled the Rams' Fred Jones to a 5-5 tie for Princeton's first two points.

Brent Robinson raised his record to 7-2 when he followed it with a 56 second pin over George Warshany and Randy Laco remained the only undefeated Little Tiger (9-0) when he pinned Kevin Dowd in 1:14 in their 170-pound match.

PHS, however, couldn't keep it going because the Blue and White also has a problem at the upper end. It has no 188-pounder and heavyweight Alec Hoke, although strong and quick, is inexperienced. The sophomore was pinned by Hightstown's George Philpott in 3:05.

As a consequence, right now, says Murray, "we're just wrestling with three people. That's the way it's going to be the rest of the season."

"You try to make all kinds of adjustments ... get some spunk in them ... but nothing seems to work. It's going to be a long season."

Murray allowed that he was disappointed in the margin of the Hightstown win. "I felt we would do a little better than that."

Murray reported that PHS 108-pounder Ken Straman had Hightstown's undefeated Robert Martello on his back in the first period but was unable to finish him off because of inexperience. Martello escaped and pinned Straman with eight seconds left in the first period.

Randy Puilen, the Rams' unbeaten 101-pounder, needed only 42 seconds to flatten Nick Hastings. This is the dismal PHS litany that followed the opening match: Straman pinned in 1:42; Josh Miller decisioned, 14-0; Scott Pirone pinned in 1:24; Brian O'Grady decisioned, 11-1; Tony Cedeno decisioned, 9-1; Adam Cate pinned, 40 seconds.

PDS BEATS HUN

After Three Losses. High school games postponed by bad weather often never get rescheduled, but when the Princeton Day game against Hun originally set for January 7 fell victim to snow, it was very important for the Panthers and Hun to find a new date.

Both teams are struggling with losing records this year, and after their first meeting in the Pennington Tournament after Christmas, each team knew it had a good chance for a victory in the second meeting.

PDS won the first one, 51-44, and this past Monday it managed to squeeze by the Raiders, 47-45, at Hun. After three straight losses to Trenton High, Delbarton and Hun, it sure feels good to win one, especially with games against Steinert and Lawrenceville later this week.

Shaun Tobin pretty much did it all for the Blue and White, scoring 22 points, including the winning basket, and blocking Hun's last attempt to tie the score with two seconds left. Tobin sat out most of the fourth period after picking up his fourth personal with 22 seconds left in the third, but Hun could not take real advantage of his absence.

After a sloppy first half, Hun led 26-21, but PDS took the lead in the third quarter before Tobin had to sit down. That period ended at 32-32, and Hun managed to pull ahead. The Insers could not pull ahead by much, and only led by one when Tobin returned.

They expanded that lead to three, but Tobin sank both ends of a one and one situation to make it 42-41. After another Hun basket, Tobin scored four more points, before Hun tied it at 45 all. PDS held the ball for the last minute, and Tobin calmly fired in the winning points with four seconds left. The victory gave PDS a 4-7 mark.

Last Friday's loss to Delbarton will be the toughest to forget, because the Panthers appeared to have a lock on the outcome, leading 58-49 with just 2:38 left.

But in the best tradition of snatching defeat from the jaws of victory popularized by the New York Mets in the early sixties, PDS let this one slip away. The Blue and White never scored another point in the time remaining.

Delbarton drew to within three on three consecutive baskets by Dave Reed, and then tied it at 58-58 when Mark Broderick was successful on a three point play with 46 seconds to go. Andy Charen had a chance to put PDS back in front, but missed the first of a one and one situation.

Delbarton grabbed the rebound and played for the final shot, taking a time out with about 10 seconds remaining to set up a play. The subsequent inbounds pass was high, however, and deflected to Charen.

The Panthers were hit with some bad luck here as Charen lost the ball out of bounds, possibly after being hit by a Delbarton player. No foul was called. Given a second chance the Green Wave won the game on a basket by Tony Heaton in the final two seconds. Tobin's jumper at the buzzer hit the rim and bounded away.

Stevenson was upset by the call, but well aware that it was not the deciding factor. "We had a team down by 12 points and let them back in the game," he said. "Instead of building on the lead, we let them back in. We didn't play 32 minutes of basketball."

Earlier, the Blue and White had played some fine basketball, leading 19-12 at the end of the first period. Delbarton came back a bit in the second, but the home team owned a 50-36 advantage at the end of the third. But things went downhill rapidly in the fourth quarter as PDS sought to protect its lead, and ended up being outscored 24 to 8 in the final eight minutes.

Tobin, as usual, was high man with 24 points, slightly below his average. Jamie Bonini had 15 and Mike Leahy, 11.

The following day against Hill, the fourth quarter again proved to be the decisive one in the Panthers' loss. PDS fell behind 26-19 at halftime, but managed to pull even at 42-42 by the end of the third period.

In the fourth period, Hill regained the momentum through the shooting of Rick Walder and Andy Flood, who scored 55 of Hill's points between them. The final was 68-62.

Tobin scored a season high 38 points on 14 field goals and 10 free throws. He was the only PDS player to sink a foul shot. The win was Hill's eighth in nine games.

Tornadoes Triumph. To no one's surprise the Trenton High Tornadoes, one of the top teams in the state, blew into the PDS gym last Wednesday afternoon and blew out the undermanned Panthers, 87-53, for their 11th victory in 12 games.

The visitors employed a pressing man-to-man defense from the outset, and the inexperienced Panthers were not able to handle the pressure, committing 30 turnovers. Scoring the majority of its points on layups or short range jumpers, Trenton rolled to an 18-6 advantage by the end of the first period, and increased that to 38-17 at the half.

Early in the fourth period, Trenton led by as much as 42 before coach Billy Clark cleared his bench. Tobin finished with a game-high 30 points, but 17 of those came in the final period after the outcome had been decided.

The lopsided defeat demonstrated one obvious fact. If PDS is going to continue to play Trenton (and there is no reason it should), it better continue to recruit Trenton basketball players.

PHS GIRLS 0-3

In Basketball Last Week. It had three tries last week but the Princeton High School girls basketball team is still looking for that second win. The Little Tigers lost to Hopewell Valley, Hamilton and Hightstown, as their record dipped to 1-6.

When Hopewell Valley (6-1) had a cold hand and went 0-13 from the floor in the first period to allow PHS to jump to an 11-1 lead Friday, it looked as if the Little Tigers were on their way. Not so. The Bulldogs made up those 10 points and more when they outscored PHS, 21-6, in the third period, and went on to win, 61-47.

Freshman Monica Greenland led PHS with 18 points, while Marci Dutko poured in a game-high 23 for the visitors. Lynn Harkness of HV added 15 more.

Earlier, Hamilton outscored the Blue and White in every period en route to a 61-42 win. This time, the PHS attack was more balanced. Gladys Rice scored 13 points, Greenland 7, and Tammy Hemmingway, Paige Walden and Claire Callahan 6 each.

Hamilton's Lisa Andrews led all scorers with 18, while teammate Amy Hutchinson had 12.

PHS began the week by falling behind Hightstown early, trailing 12-2 after the first period in a Colonial Valley Conference contest. Both teams netted 13 in the second period and although PHS outscored the Rams 22-18 in the second half, it was not enough to overcome the early deficit. The visitors prevailed, 43-37.

Greenland and Walden combined for 17 points for the losers. Callahan added 8, Rice 6 and Karen Lytle 6 as these five accounted for all 37 PHS points.

HILL NIPS PDS, 4-2

In Hockey. "It was a disappointing game for us. It left us feeling very frustrated," summed up Princeton Day hockey coach Harry Rulon-Miller, reflecting on his team's 4-2 loss to Hill School last Wednesday.

Rulon-Miller's words are understandable in the light of the Panthers' lack of success against the Pottstown, Pa. school the last several years. No matter how well PDS has played, and it played well this time, Hill has always managed to come away with the victory. No senior on the present team has ever beaten Hill, and the string of losses goes back much further than four years.

Hill epitomizes the well coached, well drilled team, that rarely, if ever, resorts to rough tactics. In the past when PDS and Hill have met, it has not been uncommon for neither team to receive a penalty. This contest with seven called was an exception.

This year's Hill team, according to Rulon-Miller, had its usual battery of strong forwards, and a not-so-strong defense. The PDS players skated on even terms with the home team for the whole contest, but one brief letdown in the third period cost them the game.

It came around the 10-minute mark just after the Blue and White had successfully killed off a Hill power play. Hill took advantage of the moment and broke a 2-2 deadlock that had existed since the latter part of the first period.

PDS applied the pressure in search of the tying goal, and things became somewhat frantic near the end, with a number of penalties called in the last three minutes. Rulon-Miller removed goalie Roger Holloway in the last minute, but Hill came up with an empty-net goal to seal PDS's fate.

The game began with Hill pretty much in charge, and the winners owned a 2-0 lead after the first eight minutes. PDS took advantage of Hill's constant forechecking and made good on a two-on-one break, with Eb Metcalf scoring off a pass from Mark Egner.

PDS tied it up on a power play goal with 1:35 remaining in the period. Kevin Johnson scored from the point, assisted by John Drezner and Egner.

Neither team could score in the second period, although PDS was able to put pressure on the Hill defense when the Drezner and Egner lines were on. However, shots on goal were another matter. Hill only had three in the second period, 15 for the game; PDS was credited with five in the second, and 17 overall.

Friday's snow forced postponement of the Brick game scheduled for that day; no new date has been set.

Now at 4-4-1, PDS will play two high school teams this week, Seton Hall on Wednesday and Livingston Friday. The latter is rated the top public school team in the state. Both are home contests.

THREE GAMES ON TAP
For Hun School Quotet. Although the inexperienced (it has only one senior) Hun basketball team has played solid ball in spurts, its youth has prevented it from taking command of more experienced foes.

As a result, Hun dropped two more contests last week, bowing to Steinert 74-43 Friday and to Lawrenceville 71-64 earlier. Hun once led favored Lawrenceville, 48-42, in the third period.

Three games are on tap this week for coach Bob Hendrickson's Hun quintet.

It will entertain Delbarton this Wednesday at 3:45, Peddie Friday evening at 8 and on Monday will travel to Pottstown, Pa. for a game with Hill School.

Barcellona Injured. Hun was very much in its game with Steinert, trailing 17-14 after the first period. Just before the end of the period, 6-5 Mike Barcellona hit his head on the floor when another player fell on top of him during a charging call.

He was unconscious for five minutes and spent the night in the hospital for observation. With Barcellona out, the Spartans outscored Hun 17-5 in the second period and slowly pulled away during the second half.

Describing Steinert as a "very consistent, very mature team," Hendrickson remarked that his own team "did some good things. We kept down their high scorer," he said.

"If Barcellona had been in there, I'm not saying we would have won, but I think it would have been a much better contest," added Hendrickson. "It hurt-literally."

Junior Kris Wronski led Hun with 19 points. Paul Pintella added eight. The home team Spartans, which won their third in their last four starts, were paced by Ken Edwards and Joe Ebeling, who tossed in 14 each.

Although it lost to rival Lawrenceville, Hun may have gained some of that maturity it needs, in Hendrickson's opinion.

Phillies Are Coming

After allowing the visiting Larries to spurt to a 14-2 lead, Hun fought back until the lead had been cut to 40-38 at halftime.

Good Second Quarter. "We had a great second quarter," said Hendrickson, when Hun shot 9-for-12 from the floor and outscored Lawrenceville, 23-15. "We were getting a lot of defensive rebounds, and giving Lawrenceville only one shot."

In the fourth period, Hun shot 4-for-12 from the floor and was allowing the visitors to take two and three shots at a time. "I don't know what happened. We must have lost our zip," said Hendrickson. "That's the sophomore aspect."

In the third period, a driving layup by Paul Franzoni, a Tim Landis jumper and another layup by Andy Marlatt triggered Hun to a 48-42 lead. It was short-lived, however.

Hun proceeded to turn the ball over four times, yielding six consecutive points to Lawrenceville's Sam Washington, and allowing the Larries to tie the score at 48.

The teams traded baskets, Marlatt and Barcellona scoring for Hun, until Lawrenceville went on top 53-52 for good, on a jumper by Kevin Thigpen, as the third period buzzer was sounding.

"We had trouble controlling the ball when we had the lead," commented Hendrickson. "They came back because we didn't play the way we should have on defense."

Hun shot 52 percent, hitting on 27 of 52 attempts. Franzoni paced Hun with 17, 13 coming in the first half. Barcellona ended with 14 and Marlatt with 12.

Lawrenceville made half of its shots from the floor, canning 31 of 62. Washington and Thigpen combined for 33 points to lead Lawrenceville to its sixth win in nine starts. Ronnie Kane added six points but had 11 assists and five steals for the victors.

PLAY BEGINS
In Dillon Basketball League. Princeton Recreation Department's Dillon Basketball League began its season Saturday.

In one of two games in the Junior division, the Knights defeated the Silver Knights, 31 to 23. Robby Bosley and Tom Savage led the victors with 13 and 9 points respectively, while the Silver Knights' Pat McKellar netted 15.

In the second game the Superiors shaded the Blue Devils in overtime, 26 to 25. Mike Riddick led the Superiors with 19 points; the Blue Devils' Rene Witke and Billy Scott had 8 and 6 points.

In the Senior division, Team 1 outlasted Team 5, 43 to 39. Team 1's Kyle Hayes led all scorers with 18 points, as, could mean one girl, five times.

There were 113 for senior citizen Outreach, 106 for parties and a film festival and an Open House which drew 20; 15 for International Folk dance; 20 for T'ai Chi; 25 pre-teens and teens in the Community House tutoring program run by Princeton University students and the rest to the Civil Rights offices, which are in one corner of the building.

Last year, a rock band drew 60 to a party; 10 went to a film and four showed up for a photography workshop (the Center has a dark room).

"Mothers would like to see more programs for kids," Ms. Schreyer believes. "I guess you could say there has been prolonged waiting for decent programs for kids."

"Outreach" a County Program. Her own Outreach program reached 200 to 300 elderly residents of Princeton, many disabled people and the so-called "displaced home-maker" who may have to work at a job for the first time in her life.

Outreach's Home Energy Assistance for low-income people, provides $200 to $400 a year credit to your fuel company; $522 a year, if there are two of you. "Lifeline" gives the elderly and disabled people $125 credit per year on utilities, if they meet the income criteria of $9,000 a year for a single person, $12,000 a year for a couple. (This is Casino money, Ms. Schreyer points out).

"My job is to be troubleshooter if you didn't get your Lifeline credit, or if you need help filling out your Medicare application — because most doctors won't do it any more — or if you are entitled to Pharmaceutical Assistance for the Aged, or Supplemental Security Income, under Social Security."

She is a county employee. Her office space is donated free by the Center.

In the Food Stamps program, Ms. Schreyer has about 64 new appointments each month. She asks the questions that determine whether you are eligible, and, with the passage of time, the questions that determine whether you are still eligible.

All this seems far from basketball games, rock band dances and tutoring of middle-school kids, but it's a part of the "Community Center" concept.

Director's Salary inadequate. Specifics about the reasons why the most recent director was fired, are hard to pin down, but Daphne Moore said she resigned last fall as treasurer and board member because the director wouldn't co-operate with her. "But I still support the Center," she added.

The basic problem — money. Directors have been paid $13,000 a year, and the consensus is that it's hard to find an experienced person for that salary. Apparently the Center could now pay $16,000.

As a United Way agency, the Center receives about $48,000 a year from that source. As Borough property, it gets garbage removal, snow removal, hedge-trimming and the like.

Ms. Schreyer says a fund-raising campaign will be launched to finance various programs and augment the United Way contribution. Mr. McQueen would like to open the Center to more groups who would offer a donation; at present, one group contributes $75 a month.

He shudders as he mentions $1.15 a gallon for fuel oil and says that he and John Rose, who is also an architect, went over the Center for maintenance problems — windows that don't close and lose heat, and so on.

"I hope," he says, "that we can upgrade the recreation program, get kids there and expose them to other programs. Paul Houston, the school superintendent, favors resuming that link with the schools. And we'd like to know — what would the community itself, like to have in the Center?"

teammate Joe O'Grady added 13. Team 5's Frantz Massenat scored 17 points.

In the second contest, the Kings topped Team 2, 40 to 28. Monica Greenland paced the victors with 16 points, and Keith Green contributed 12 more. Jason Petrone and David Bush had 11 each for Team 2.

STAN SMITH HERE

For Tennis Matches, Clinic. Tennis star Stan Smith will be at Princeton's Jadwin Gymnasium Sunday to play matches, conduct a junior clinic and attend a reception after the tennis match. The pre-superbowl exhibition will benefit the Princeton University tennis team.

Holder of more U.S. men's singles and doubles titles than anyone except Bill Tilden, Stan Smith currently holds the U.S. Open Doubles title. He has also won the U.S. Open, Wimbledon and WCT singles championships. Recently, he gained the No. 1 ranking in the Volvo Grand Prix doubles standings, and he will come to Princeton fresh from competing in the Volvo Masters tournament in New York.

Mr. Smith is married to the former Marjorie Gengler, Princeton Class of 1973, whose sister, Louise Gengler, Princeton Class of 1975, now coaches the women's tennis team, current Ivy League champion.

Mr. Smith will play Princeton University's No. 1 player and captain, Leif Shiras, in the featured match at 2:30. A college All-American, Leif was a semi-finalist in the NCAA Championship and played this past summer on the U.S. Junior Olympic Team. He will be fresh from playing in the intercollegiate indoor championships at Houston where he is seeded No. 8.

Following the Smith-Shiras match will be mixed doubles with Stan and members of Princeton's Men's and Women's Teams. After the matches, the Sea Pines Co. will offer a slide presentation of the Sea Pines Plantation at Hilton Head Island, S.C., where Mr. Smith lives, and there will be a reception. From 12:30 to 2:30, Mr. Smith will conduct a junior clinic for students 18 and under, beginner to advanced.

Tickets for the matches and reception are $20 per adult and $10 per student (18 and under). The clinic is $5 per student (18 and under) and is limited to 100 players.

Tickets may be purchased at the Princeton University Ticket Office at Jadwin Gymnasium, Monday through Friday, 9-2, or at the Princeton Tennis Office, 71 University Place, Monday through Friday, 9-5.

OPENER IS WON

By Jersey Corn, 31-24. The Princeton Women's Adult Basketball League, which began play last week, was highlighted by a defensive game between Sweet Jersey

Stan Smith

Corn and the Queens of Hearts. The Corn won, 31-24.

The victors were paced by Dee Pearce's 10 points and Clare Baxter's seven. Leading all scorers was the Queens' Marty Heard, who had 12 points. Kathy Shillaber contributed eight, six coming in the last quarter.

The League is supervised by

REGISTER SATURDAY

For Pink Panther League. Registration for the Pink Panther League will be held Saturday morning at the John Witherspoon School from 9 to 10:30.

Pink Panthers is designed to teach Princeton youngsters the fundamentals of dribbling, passing, and shooting in a low-key atmosphere. Good sportsmanship and fair play are stressed. Participants who are also girl scouts will be able to earn a basketball merit badge.

The program is open to all Princeton residents and those attending school in Princeton between 9 and 12. The registration fee of $7 for the seven-week program helps cover the cost of equipment and facilities. Registration forms may be picked up at the Recreation Office.

Players should report to the gym wearing sneakers and comfortable clothing. Adult volunteers, especially women, are needed for coaching and administrative work. For more information, call the Recreation Office, 921-9480, or Kera Herzog, 921-1749.

TENNIS AVAILABLE

To Non-residents. The Recreation Department is accepting names of non-residents wishing to join the tennis court complex at Community Park for the 1981 season.

The Recreation Department will honor season tickets for a limited number of non-residents. Membership for the season (April-October) will cost $50 per adult and $25 per child (15 years of age or under).

Season ticket holders will be entitled to play on the new cushion surface constructed on the old Tenko Courts and also will be eligible to play in the evenings under the lights.

For additional information and sign-up, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

GIRLS SOUGHT

For Gymnastics Class. The Recreation Department will hold a Tumbling and Beam Class beginning Thursday, January 22, and ending on February 26. This six week program will be held from 4:15 to 6 at the Littlebrook School.

Girls who attend school in Princeton or live in Princeton and are in grades four through eight may register for the free program. A registration form may be obtained at the Recreation Office located in the Township Hall Annex Building.

The former Gymnastics Program will be instructed by Mrs. Nancy Valosin, who is also an instructor for Mercer County Community College. The deadline for registration is Wednesday, January 21, at 5. For further information, call the Recreation Office, 921-9480 between 9 and 5.
